MASONIC TEMPLE.

PHILADELPHIA, November 1, 1909.

Brethren—

The second volume of the history of Lodge No. 2 entitled "Freemasonry in Pennsylvania," compiled from original sources by Brother Norris S. Barratt, Past Master of Lodge No. 2, and Brother Julius F. Sachse, Paster Master of Lodge No. 91, under your direction has been carefully examined by me, and I hereby authorize its publication. I find it accurately and conscientiously done, and if anything more interesting than the first volume, which I have already said is an invaluable contribution to the Masonic literature of this country. It will prove a mine of information to the student of American Freemasonry and the craft generally.

Fraternally yours,

GEORGE B. ORLADY,
Grand Master.

Committee on History
Lodge No. 2.

PREFACE.

Volume I of the History of Freemasonry in Pennsylvania, compiled from the records of Lodge No. 2, brought us to St. John's Day, 1781.

Volume II is from that date to the close of December, 1813.

The Worshipful Master Brother Lyman M. Doerr reappointed P. M. Brother Norris S. Barratt, Chairman, P. M. Brother John Middleton, P. M. Brother John K. McCarthy, P. M. Brother Harry Anderson and P. M. Brother William H. Shoemaker as the Committee on History. The Chairman, P. M. Brother Norris S. Barratt, and Brother Julius F. Sachse, Litt.D., P. M. of Columbia Lodge, No. 91, librarian of the Grand Lodge, continued as compilers. The result of their work is before you. The Right Worshipful Grand Master, George B. Orlady, in authorizing its publication, is graciously pleased to observe that it will prove a mine of information to the student of American Freemasonry and the craft generally.

The City of Philadelphia, as is well known, up to 1800 was not only the capital of the State of Pennsylvania but of the nation, and many of our brethren were actively engaged in public affairs, so that Lodge No. 2 has an intensely interesting history during this period. This Masonic history related with simplicity and directness from the minutes eloquent of fraternity, patriotism, religion and liberty, we hope will interest and instruct you.

The beauty of the principles of Freemasonry appeal to all of us, as they did to our first members, and we know that the practice of those principles could not fail to make them better men and better citizens. As we review their labors in an appreciative way, let us also be animated by their spirit of fraternity and give to all of them, great or humble as they may have been, the meed of praise that is their due who in any degree helped to maintain the traditions of the craft and make the history of Lodge No. 2.

We commence with the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va., which ended the British attempt to conquer America and insured independence. The English Ahiman Rezon was not suited to our needs, so Rev. Brother Dr. William Smith, a member of Lodge No. 2, Provost of the College of Philadelphia, now the University of Pennsylvania, and Grand Secretary in 1783, under the direction of the Grand Lodge abridged and digested it and dedicated it to George Washington, Esq., General and Commander-in-chief of the armies of the United States, as is shown by the facsimile of title page and dedication on page 7.

The most important Masonic event of the year 1783, in addition to the publication of the New Ahiman Rezon, was an effort made to establish a fund "For the relief of distressed and indigent Free Masons." This was the first attempt at organized Masonic charity in the western world.

In 1781 Lodge No. 2 met in Videll's Alley on Second Street below Chestnut, then, in the old Freemason's Lodge in Lodge Alley on Second Street near Walnut, and after its sale temporarily in Joseph Morris' building in Black Horse Alley below Market Street east of Second Street. All the Masonic bodies took part in the dedication of the Morris building. On the first of October, 1785, the old Freemasons' Lodge was sold at public auction, and the proceeds thereof, $1,533.57, belonging to the survivors of the Grand Lodge who had contributed, were donated to the City of Philadelphia "to furnish the poor with fire wood," and it will be interesting to the brethren to learn that it is still held by the Board of City Trusts and has been merged in the city fuel fund.

The close of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and our notice of September 25, 1786, to the Grand Lodge of England, of our independence, and the formation of the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania, to which we all owe allegiance; and that we considered ourselves under no ties, except those of brotherly love and affection, to any other Grand Lodge; the mistake of Brother Solomon Bush, who delivered the notice to the Grand Lodge of Moderns at London, and their brotherly admonition to us under the impression that it came from the Lodges that they had warranted (when the communication was intended for the Grand Lodge of Ancient York Masons at London), are interesting incidents now made known to the Masonic world for the first time. It is further a noteworthy fact that the error made by Brother Bush in delivering his message to the Grand Lodge of Moderns in 1788 was the means of bringing about fraternal relations between that body and our own Grand Lodge, and it is believed that this is the only case on record where a foreign Grand Body was in fraternal communication with both of the English Grand Lodges. As a matter of fact it was the precursor of the ultimate union of the two English Grand Lodges which was happily consummated some twenty years later.

Among the distinguished members of Lodge No. 2 in addition to the roll of honor containing sixteen colonels, ten majors and twenty-eight captains mentioned in Volume I, who helped to obtain American independence, and deserve more than a passing notice, are Col. Thomas Proctor, Joseph Dean, Captain Allen McLane, Col. Eleazer Oswald, Captain Peter Stephen Duponceau, Richard Wistar and Dr. Caspar Wistar, but as copious notes of the lives and achievements of Col. Proctor, Joseph Dean, Captain McLane, George A. Baker and Colonel Oswald appear in the text, it is unnecessary to repeat them here except to add to the list Captain Duponceau, Richard Wistar and Dr. Caspar Wistar.

Captain Peter S. Duponceau, an eminent scholar and linguist, was a native of France, born the third of June, 1760, at St. Martin in the Isle of Rhe. After the death of his father, persuaded by his mother he took up the religious life at the Benedictine College of St. Jean d'Angely and he became Abbe Duponceau. Although his American friends never could picture him to themselves as an abbe with tonsured head, yet he led this life until 1775, when he decided to abandon it and go to Paris, where he supported himself by teaching English and Italian. Here he met Baron Steuben, became his secretary and accompanied him to America in 1777, where he joined the American army with the rank of captain and aid-de-camp. He spent the memorable winter 1777–8 with the army at Valley Forge. Speaking of their sufferings he said: "They bore their condition of half-naked, half-famished men with fortitude, resignation and patience. Sometimes you might see soldiers pop their heads out of their huts, and call out in an undertone 'No bread—no soldier,' but a single word from their officer would still their complaint." He remained in the army until 1781, when he became a citizen of Pennsylvania. After the Revolution was over he studied law, and was admitted to the Philadelphia Bar. He was a great philologist and an author of a treatise upon the Chinese language and had a distinguished reputation at home and abroad. He died at his home, northeast corner of Sixth and Chestnut Streets, April 1, 1844, in his eighty-fourth year. In his early life he had been connected with the State Department as assistant to Robert R. Livingston, which brought him into contact with all the early statesmen and Revolutionary heroes. In a discourse upon his death delivered by Dr. Robley Dunglison before the American Philosophical Society he quotes from a letter of Duponceau which shows the life of a Philadelphia lawyer in early days:

In the beginning of the present century, during the reign of the embargo, non-intercourse, and other restrictive measures produced by the British orders in council, and the Berlin and Milan decrees, a great number of cases were carried up from this city to the Supreme Court of the United States. The counsel engaged in those causes were in the habit of going together to Washington to argue their causes before that tribunal. These were Mr. Ingersoll, Mr. Dallas, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Edward Tilghman, Mr. Rawle and myself, who am, alas, the only survivor of that joyous band. We hired a stage to ourselves, in which we proceeded by easy journeys. The court sat then, in the month of February; so that we had to travel in the depth of winter, through bad roads, in the midst of rain, hail and snow, in no very comfortable way. Nevertheless, as soon as we were out of the city, and felt the flush of air, we were like school boys in the playground on a holiday; and we began to kill time by all the means that our imaginations could suggest. Flashes of wit shot their coruscations on all sides; puns of the genuine Philadelphia stamp were handed out; old college stories were revived; macaroni Latin was spoken with great purity; songs were sung—even classical songs—among which I recollect the famous Bacchanalian of the Archdeacon of Oxford, "Mihi est propositum in taberna mori"; in short, we might have been taken for anything but the grave counsellors of the celebrated bar of Philadelphia.

I shall always remember with pleasure those delightful journeys, in which we all became intimately acquainted with each other; for on such occasions, when free scope is given to the imagination, men appear in their true characters, and no art can prevent them from showing themselves as they really are. Our appearance at the bar of the Supreme Court was always a scene of triumph. We entered the hall together, and Judge Bushrod Washington was heard to say: "This is my bar." Our causes had a preference over all others, in consideration of the distance we had to travel. The greatest liberality was shown to us by the members of the profession who usually attended that court. It was really a proud thing, at that time, to be a Philadelphia lawyer.

On the acquisition of Louisiana he was offered the Chief Justiceship of the new territory by President Jefferson, but declined. Chief Justice James T. Mitchell, of Pennsylvania, lately said of him:

It is doubtful if he was not always more of a scholar and philosopher than a lawyer, but he took great interest in the science of jurisprudence and in the brotherhood of the bar especially among the younger men. He occupied a very prominent place in the intellectual life of his day, having been first provost of the Law Academy, second chancellor of the Law Association, president of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and of the American Philosophical Society.

Richard Wistar was born in Philadelphia on the twentieth of July, 1756. He was a member of the Society of Friends. In 1790 he was in the hardware business at the northwest corner of Third and Market Streets. The Friends disowned him for his patriotism during the Revolution and for marrying Sarah Morris out of meeting. His Masonic certificate on parchment in English, French and Spanish is dated twenty-seventh of August, 1779, and signed by Brother John Wood of Lodge No. 2, Grand Secretary. It is related of him that he always carried with him his Masonic certificate tied up in a silken bag when he traveled by sea or land. How great a patriot he was is best illustrated by his letter of June 11, 1783, as Worshipful Master of Lodge No. 2, on page 44, to the Right Worshipful Grand Master asking for a dispensation to initiate three Revolutionary colonels. He was also noted for his generosity, and on April 11, 1785, he contributed £2 5s. to Lodge No. 2 for building a house for the Grand Lodge. He resigned in 1791 to form with some others Lodge No. 51, and was the Worshipful Master mentioned in the warrant. He died in 1821.

Dr. Caspar Wistar, one of Philadelphia's most distinguished physicians, the brother of Richard, was born on the thirteenth of September, 1761. He studied medicine under Dr. John Redman, who was also a member of Lodge No. 2, and in 1782 he was given the degree of doctor of medicine by the University of Pennsylvania. He then continued his medical studies in London and Edinburgh. In 1787 he was physician to the Philadelphia Dispensary and a member of the College of Physicians and the American Philosophical Society. He rendered most efficient service during the yellow fever epidemic of 1793 and contracted that disease himself, but fortunately recovered. In 1792 he was assistant professor of anatomy in the University of Pennsylvania and subsequently was professor of that branch from 1808 to 1818. He was the founder of the Wistar Museum of the University of Pennsylvania, 36th and Woodland Avenue. Anatomy was his forte, but he was well versed in chemistry, botany, mineralogy and history in all its branches. It was his custom to gather around him weekly at his house many of the men of learning in Philadelphia or from foreign parts, and this is the origin of our present Wistar Party which is called after him. He died on the fourteenth of January, 1818.

The leading part taken by Lodge No. 2 in early Freemasonry is readily understood when we recall who these men were and their high social and professional standing in Philadelphia.

The first American flag displayed on the Thames at London after the peace of 1783 was on the ship "William Penn," commanded by Captain James Josiah, a member of Lodge No. 2, and who commanded the sloop "Le Gerard" assisting the brig "Convention," Captain Houston, in the capture of the sloop "Active," which resulted in the memorable contest between the state and the nation.

Brother Lafayette stopped in Philadelphia, August 9, 1784, on his way to Mt. Vernon to visit Brother George Washington and present him with the Masonic apron now in the Grand Lodge library, and it was then that Brother John Parke of Lodge No. 2 in honor of his presence composed and published the ode greeting Brother Lafayette.

In 1785 the Sublime Lodge of Perfection was consecrated, and Brother Joseph Dean, a member of Lodge No. 2, and later Senior Grand Warden, presented to the Grand Lodge a lot of ground southwest corner Twelfth and Walnut streets upon which to build a Grand Lodge house. It was considered at that time too far out in the country for the purpose, and it was therefore on February 23, 1809, unfortunately sold for $2,000.

Rev. Samuel Magaw, Vice Provost of the University of Pennsylvania, a member of the craft, delivered a sermon for the benefit of the poor at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Saturday, December 27, 1783, dedicated to the Chevalier de Luzerne, minister to the United States from the Court of France, as shown by facsimile.

The next event was a sermon on the character of the Evangelist St. John preached December 27, 1784, before the Grand Lodge at Christ Church by the Rev. William White, Chaplain to Congress, 1781–1801, rector of Christ Church and St. Peter's, who upon the organization of the American Episcopal Church became the first Bishop. His consecration took place at Lambeth Palace, London, England, on February 4, 1787.

The year 1793 is memorable because of the epidemic of yellow fever and the attempts of the French emigrés to destroy our faith in our Supreme Master, the great architect of the universe, and our new government, going so far as to attempt to impeach President Washington. As is well known, their efforts failed and the failure was contributed to in no slight degree by the craft, who performed the duty which Masons ought always to inculcate, viz.: to God, our neighbor and ourselves. The conspicuous leaders who stood for law, order and religion were President Washington, Bishop William White and Pastor Helmuth of the Lutheran Church.

On December 27, 1793, St. John's Day, the Grand Lodge attended Divine service at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and the Masonic prayer delivered by Rev. Samuel Magaw, D.D., the rector, was considered of such importance that it was published in pamphlet form. The facsimile of the service, prayer and dedication are reproduced.

St. John's Day, June 24, 1795, was observed by a public procession from the Grand Lodge, Fifth and Arch Streets, to St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Second and Pine Streets, where a sermon was delivered by Rev. Brother Dr. William Smith, of Lodge No. 2.

Our illustrious brother, General George Washington, having died, Brother George A. Baker, Grand Secretary, a member of Lodge No. 2, on December 23, 1799, notified the brethren to meet in consequence of an invitation of the Committee of Arrangements of Congress to attend the funeral oration in honor of the late Lieutenant General George Washington as directed by Congress. The Grand Lodge decided to join in the honor about to be shown to the memory of our illustrious deceased brother, and the brethren then formed in due order in the Grand Lodge Room, and moving from thence joined in the general procession, which formed in the middle of Chestnut Street, right on Sixth. The route was down Fifth to Walnut Street, down Walnut to Fourth and up Fourth to Zion German Lutheran Church. A bier covered with a pall was carried in the procession by six sergeants and was deposited in front of the altar beneath the pulpit. An anthem, monody and dirge composed for the occasion was sung by a choir, the leading voices in which were artists from the theatre in Chestnut Street, the original music of which is now in the Library of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. The funeral service was pronounced by the Rt. Rev. Bishop William White, after which General Henry Lee, of Virginia, delivered the address in accordance with the resolution of Congress, wherein Brother Washington was characterized as being "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," which being ended, the Masonic procession returned to the Grand Lodge room.

On January 1, 1800, the French Lodge L'Amenite, No. 73, of the Pennsylvania jurisdiction, held a Public Lodge of Sorrow, upon which occasion an oration in French on Brother George Washington was delivered by Brother Simon Chaudron. The facsimile of the title page of this oration is reproduced in both French and English. Subsequently on Washington's birthday, twenty-second day of February, 1800, the Grand Lodge listened to an oration commemorative of the virtues and greatness of General Washington by Rev. Brother Samuel Magaw, D.D., at the German Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, the title page of which is also reproduced.

The anniversary of St. John's Day was observed on Monday, the twenty-fourth of June, 1811, at St. John's Lutheran Church, on the south side of Race Street, below Sixth Street, by an oration on Masonry by the Right Worshipful Grand Master James Milnor and the singing of two Masonic hymns specially composed for the occasion, one by Brother Robert Taylor and the other by Brother Joseph Clay, Past Master of Lodge No. 3. The craft then proceeded to the Chestnut Street hall, then just completed, where the ceremony of formal dedication took place, followed by a banquet attended by the Grand Officers of New Jersey and Maryland and other respectable visitors and brethren, two hundred in number.

The records show and the craft in reading this book cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that our ancient brethren dispensed charity with a liberal hand according to their means to those entitled to it. Like the Psalmist, we have considered the days of old and the years that are past and have set forth the life and achievements of Lodge No. 2 as it is recorded. It is a Masonic record to be proud of, and in saying it we recall Lord Macauley's words that "A people which takes no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants." If this history shall serve to make the craft more proud of our Masonic forefathers who practiced out of the Lodge those pure principles of fraternity and morality they were taught within it, our end will be attained.

We cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing our obligations and thanks to Right Worshipful Grand Master Brother Louis C. Massey, of Florida, Brother Daniel W. Nead, P. M., of Colonial Lodge No. 631, for preparing index of subjects and names. Also Honorable William White Wiltbank and Honorable John M. Scott, for their courtesy and assistance.

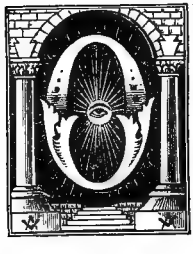
Freemasonry in Pennsylvania

1730—1907

CHAPTER XIV.

Under the Provincial Grand Lodge.



OUR second volume of the History of "Freemasonry in Pennsylvania" as shown by the Records of the Provincial Grand Lodge, together with those of Lodge No. 2 and contemporary sister Lodges, begins with a transcript of the third minute book of the venerable Lodge No. 2, and covers the period from 1782 to June 16, 1787. Unfortunately there is no date to the first entry in the old leather-bound tome. The transactions here recorded are undoubtedly the ones alluded to "as being transcribed into a new book," on page 440 of the previous volume.

The first regular entry for the year 1782 appears to be of the Lodge held Wednesday, January 9, 1782. With the advent of the new year the political conditions of the country assumed a more normal shape.

The surrender of Cornwallis in the previous October, had virtually ended the British attempt to conquer America. Peace and independence now seemed assured. The financial skies also commenced to brighten, and our Fraternity entered upon an era of activity which extended to both our own Grand Lodge and the subordinate lodges at home and in the several states owing Masonic fealty to the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

The question of a General Grand Master for the American Colonies having been eliminated by the adverse action of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, as set forth in Chapter XII. of our initial volume, the chief event of Masonic import now was the compilation of an abridgment of the English Ahiman Rezon or Book of Constitutions, suitable for modern needs, under the changed condition of affairs, both political and social. This important matter was under consideration since the year 1779, when at the Grand Communication held on December 20.

A motion was made and seconded that a new Edition of the Book of Constitution be prepared for the press, and the Deputy Grand Master [Bro. John Coats], the Grand Sec'y [Rev. Bro. William Smith], Br. Young Treasurer of No. 2, Br. Bernard of No. 3, Br. Whitehead of No. 4, and Br. Leaming of No. 13, were appointed a Committe to revise and Prepare the Constitution for the press, and lay it before the next Quarterly Communication, leaving out what may be superfluous.

This important task was assigned by the Committee to Rev. Brother William Smith, D.D., who was perhaps the most learned scholar in the state and a member of Lodge No. 2, and at the same time Grand Secretary of the Provincial Grand Lodge. How well and satisfactorily the Reverend Brother completed this revision, which was really a labor of love, is shown by the minutes of the Grand Lodge, viz.:

NOVEMBER 22, 1781.

Grand Lodge of Emergency.

The Right Worshipful, William Ball, Esq., Grand Master.

The Grand Secretary opened the Business of the evening by informing that the Lodge was call'd together in Order to give their Sanction to the New Book of Constitutions, as order'd to be revised and published for the benefit of the Brethren in America,—whereupon the Manuscript was order'd to be read.

The Book of Constitutions being read, the same was unanimously approved of and Order'd to be printed.

Resolv'd, That the Mason's Arms be engraved as a frontispiece for the book, and in case our beloved and Illustrious Brother General Washington permit it to be dedicated to him, that his Excellency's Arms be engraved and prefixed to the Dedication.

The Thanks of the Grand Lodge were Unanimously ordered to be given to the Grand Secretary, for the care and attention with which he has revised and abridged the Constitution Book.

The patriotic spirit of our forbears shines out prominently in this effort to honor General Washington. The only regret is that the resolution to insert the Washington arms in front of the Dedication was not carried into effect.

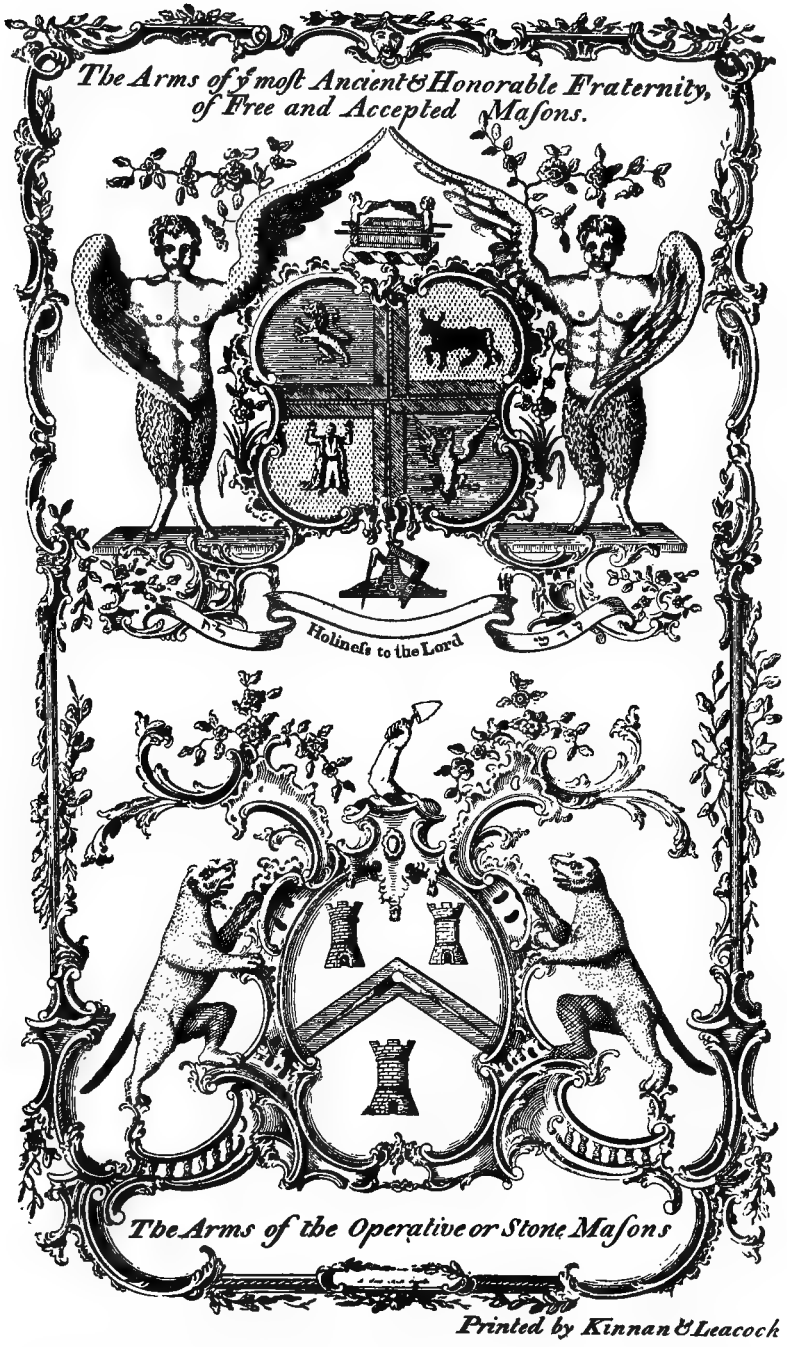
The special frontispiece of the "Mason's Arms" was engraved by Brother Robert Scot.[1] This represented

ARMS OF BROTHER GEORGE WASHINGTON.
Proposed as a prefix to the dedication of the Ahiman Rezon, but evidently not sanctioned by him.

the arms of the most "Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons" together with the "Arms of the Operative or Stone Mason's" Guild. An edition of two thousand were printed by Kinnan & Leacock, for which they received the sum of £ 14—4—0 as per minutes of March 29, 1784.

[1] Robert Scot, b. England. This appears to have been his earliest work in this country. He was later Engraver to the Mint.



FRONTISPIECE OF THE AHIMAN REZON, PENNSYLVANIA, 1783.

ORIGINAL PLATE IN MUSEUM OF THE GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The original engraved plate of this frontispiece is now on exhibition, together with an original impression by Kinnan & Leacock, in the Museum of the Grand Lodge Library in the Masonic Temple in Philadelphia.

Shortly after the motion was adopted to prepare the New American Ahiman Rezon a committee was appointed to enquire as to how many copies of the new constitutions would be taken by the various subordinate Lodges. The report was made at the Grand Communication, December 18, 1780, in which Lodge No. 2 heads the list with the report "that they will take two hundred Copies of the Constitution Books." Arrangements were also made for the printing of the proposed book. For this purpose, at the March Communication in 1781, it was "Ordered that twenty pounds specie, or the exchange, be advanced to Brother Sellers to procure paper for printing the Constitution Books."

As a further matter of interest we may recall the fact that Brother William Sellers was the surviving partner of the old firm of Hall & Sellers, whose senior member during his lifetime was so active a member in both the Grand Lodge and of Lodge No. 2. On account of the financial troubles of that day, continental scrip having fallen almost to zero, the publication suffered delay.

At the Grand Communication, December 23, 1782, it was ordered,

That the Sermon and Prayer, as delivered by Brother Smith, Grand Sec'y, some time since, be printed in the Book of Constitutions, and that the Dy. Gd. Sec'y be ordered to present the thanks of this Grand Lodge to Bro. Smith for his care, attention, etc., in forming the same, which thanks are to be inserted in the said Book of Constitutions.

Agreeable to the above order Bro. Joseph Howell, Jr., Deputy Grand Secretary, sent an extract from the minutes to the printer for insertion in the book.

It was not until St. John's day, June 24, 1783, that the New Ahiman Rezon was ready for delivery. Upon the Quarterly Communication on that day Bros. Rutherford, Proctor and Jennings were appointed a committee to issue a circular letter and send it to the several Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge, informing them of the Book of Constitutions being ready for delivery, requesting to know what number each Lodge will take.

On motion it was also agreed:

That Brother Sellers and Woodhouse shall have the Privilege of disposing of the Books of Constitutions to those Brethren who may want the same at the rate of 5/p. each Book p. Dozen and 7/6 for each single one, until next St. John's Day when this Gr. Lodge agrees to receive and pay for those which may be left on hand. Brother Sellers informed that 2000 books be printed, 1000 of which were ordered to be bound neatly.

At an Emergency Lodge held July 12, 1783, it was ordered,

STATEMENT OF BROTHER WILLIAM WOODHOUSE.

That three dozen Books of the Constitutions be presented to our worthy Brother, the Rev'd Doc'r Smith, for the great care and attention which he has paid in revising the same—as also a Letter expressing the thanks of this G^d Lodge to him.

During the years 1782 and 1783 political controversy continued to run high, and was marked by personal disputes, in which Brother Thomas Proctor and Eleazer Oswald were prominent factors, without, however, affecting our Fraternity.

The most important Masonic event of the year 1783, in addition to the publication of the New Ahiman Rezon, was an effort made to establish a fund "For the relief of distressed and indigent Free Masons." This was the first attempt at organized Masonic charity in the western world.

This matter was considered in open Lodge on the fifteenth of March, just two days after the news had reached Philadelphia of the signing of a preliminary treaty of peace with England, and was brought to America by the Packet "General Washington," which reached Philadelphia on the twelfth of March, 1783.

Beginning of Third Minute Book of Lodge No. 2.

Transactions.—An E. A. Lodge opened, when conformable to the Dispensation mentioned in the Transactions of the preceeding Lodge night—Ezekiel Bowen, Richard MacGuffin, William Tinsley, Tristram Moore, and Thomas Speer (Clandestine Masons) were balloted for, to be initiated into the sacred mysteries of the ancient Craft, and unanimously approved, as worthy—

Brother Hoopes of Lodge No 14, who petitioned to be admitted a member of this Lodge was proved worthy by sufferage, and accordingly admitted.

The petition of Mess Moffit and Shutwell, praying for admission into the fellowship and fraternity of the ancient Masons, were read and ordered to ly on the Books, conformable to the Bye-Laws.

The petition of Bro. Grayson praying of the Lodge to be indulged with the same exalted Honor, was also read, and ordered to lie on the Books.

Bros. Bowen and MacGuffin were now admitted to Masonic fellowship by being solemnly initiated into the Mysteries of the First degree of our order

Bros Wister, Farril and Hoopes were appointed a Committe on the petition of Mess. Moffet—Shutwell and Grayson

Bro R. Jones of Lodge No 4, exhibited to the Lodge a Complaint against Bro. Wm Bradford, on the subject of a contract respecting Pork.—Bro. Bradford being then absent, Bros Proctor and Fallon were appointed to communicate to him, that such complaint hath been instituted.

On Motion made by Bro Proctor, seconded by Bro Rutherford, that (in lieu of all past arrearages) the sum of Fifteen pounds be paid by this, to the Grand Lodge, so soon as our Lodge funds will conveniently admit of such deduction—Whereupon the question was put from the Chair, to be decided on by the Holding up of Hands; when it was carried in the affirmative by a Majority.

It was then moved from the Chair at the Requisition of Mr Jno MacPherson,[1] that on Vacation nights he be indulged the privilege of making use of the Lodge room, for the Laudable purpose of lecturing on the Iseoretic and Experimental Tenets held forth by Sir Isaac Newton and others, in their systems of Natural Philosophy: When it was unanimously agreed by the Brethren then present, that such request of this learned Gentleman be complied with; as it tended to diffuse science, and throw light on doctrines hitherto considered by less elevated minds, as abtruse, and even inscrutable.—A clause is, however, super added: that for the Safety of the Lodge, it's Furniture and Implements, the Tyler always attend when such Lectures are exhibited; and that for each time, and such attendance, he be paid by Mr MacPherson, the sum of One Dollar.

Bro. Kirkpatrick paid 7 shillings 6d. for Mr Grayson. Bros. Bowden & MacGuffin paid £ 1—15—0 Each for their Initiation and 3 shillings 9d. each for the Tylers dues.

[1] John Macpherson was the builder and owner of the Mansion known as "Mt. Pleasant" now in Fairmount park. Two of his sons were prominent officers during the Revolution. The mansion was occupied for a short time by Benedict Arnold after his marriage to Peggy Shippen.

Bro Christoph Irwine pd. £ 4—8—6 in full for his initiation fees and arrearages.

Paid at same time, by order of the W. M. into the hands of Bro Kirkpatrick and Dick, the sum of six Dollars, for the purpose of obtaining Refreshments for the Brethren, and the further sum of two Dollars to the Tyler for Tyling the Lodge and Summoning the Members

In consideration of the accumulated business of the Lodge, this night, the Members present unanimously agreed to dispense with the lecture which by the Bye-Laws, is obligatory on the Master every stated Lodge night, except the Majority then present and pleased to excuse him therefrom—and his Fine was therefore remitted.—

The Lodge adjourned to the hour of Five tomorrow evening—and was then closed in good harmony.

It was then Motioned from the Chair, to have the sentiments of the Lodge, whether past experience had not evinced, that the use and abuse hitherto made of the indulgence so liberally granted to Mr Jno. McPherson occasionally to possess the Lodge-room, for the purpose of Lecturing on Astronomy &c, doth not actually authorize the Lodge, to revoke the said Indulgence; and further that the Secretary be directed to desire Mr McPherson, to have all his Implements and Aparatus removed out of the said room by the second Tuesday in March next, being the Stated Lodge night; when, after some short debate, and the question being again put, it was unanimously carried in the affirmative: whereupon, the Secretary was directed, to have a Letter prepared, and addressed to Mr McPherson, expressive of this decision in order to submit it to the revision of this Lodge on the next night of meeting.

The Lodge then closed, and adjourned, till tomorrow night, to convene in the Lodge room of No 3, which the Master, officers and Brethren of that Lodge obligingly granted, as Mr McPherson had preemptorily protested against the admission of this Lodge to their own Appartment, and as Bro. Shippen had occasion for the adjoining—Lodgeroom of No 13; whose business this Lodge are unwilling to impede—Parted at the hour of ten in good Harmony.

Bros. Proctor—Roberts and Ferral are appointed a committe from this Lodge for the purpose—The Proceedings are as follows:—

The Committee from the several Lodges of Ancient Masons in the City of Philadelphia, appointed to Consider and point out proper means to relieve indigent and distress'd Masons, having taken the business committed to them into their serious consideration beg leave to report their opinion, which is as follows. . . .[4]

That the sums now paid by each Brother to his respective Lodge as monthly dues are inadequate for the purpose of a Charity fund, as the contingent expenses of the Lodges are also defrayed therefrom:

That a new fund ought to be established, to be a common stock of the whole Masonic body of this City, which new fund ought to be for the purpose of relieving the distressed part of our Brethren and for no other:

That in order to create this new fund the monthly dues or fees, of one shilling heretofore paid by each brother to his respective Lodge ought to be increased to one shilling and ten pence half penny:

That there ought to be a standing committee from each Lodge in the City of Philadelphia to be stiled "the committee for the relief of distressed and indigent Masons," to whom the Treasurer of each respective Lodge should on the first Monday of every month pay over ten pence half penny, out of every one shilling and ten pence half penny, the said Treasurers respectively shall have received for Lodge dues in the preceding month.

That the said committee ought to be chosen by each Lodge in such manner and at such times as the several Lodges respectively may from time to time see fit and necessary: but that there ought not to be more than three members from each Lodge on the said committee.

That each Lodge represented in the said committee ought to have controul over the members representing them in the same; and the said members ought to vote by Lodge and not otherways, and that any one member may have the votes entered on the minutes of their proceedings without any question.

[4] This was the first organized effort made, so far as known, in the United States for the "relief of distressed and indigent Free Masons."

That the said committee ought to have power in all things touching the business assigned them, where these regulations are silent, to regulate their own proceedings, and appoint such officers as they may deem proper; provided that none shall be appointed who are not members of the said committee.

That the said committee ought to keep fair Minutes of all their proceedings, and make report thereof to their respective Lodges on their convention next before the feast of St. John, and oftener if required.

That the several Lodges of which the said committee is to be composed ought immediately to pass such Laws as will be best, bring the foregoing into effect: and that they ought to be particularly attentive to the collection of the Lodge dues, upon which as your present committee humbly conceive will depend altogether the success of the benevolent intentions of the respective Lodges to whom they have the honor to offer this report.

Signed by a Committee from Lodges N°. 2, 3, 4, 9 & 13 in this City.

PHILAD'A June 6, 1783

Dear Brother Wistar—

The Bearers hereof Cols. Doherty, Espie & Hoffnagle are desirous of being initiated into the Fraternity of free-Masons. They are unexceptionable Characters, men of public Rank & Credit in the Counties of Bedford & Westmoreland, and will be of great Use in preventing the Progress of Clandestine Masonry, & promoting the true Craft & Art according to the ancient Rules & Practice. Mr. Huffnagle will give you some Reasons why they should be speedily made, & their Residing at a great Distance requires it.

I am desirous they should be initiated & proceed from our Lodge No 2 & do heartily recommend it to you as a Master to call a special Lodge, & to stand Godfather for them in my Name, as I am on my way to New York & shall not return till Wednesday next. I have spoken to Brothers Rutherford & Proctor. The last, viz. Brother Proctor is acquainted with them. Yours &c

WILLIAM SMITH

An Application having been made by Cols. Dougherty, Espie & Haffnagle to becom Ancient Masons, and their stay in this City will not permit their laying the accustomed time on the books and they being warmly recommended as men of Note both in Publick & private life, I am induced to solicit for a dispensation for their being made to-morrow Evening, as believing that it will give the Craft weight and influence in the frontier Counties of the State.

I am Sr. your friend

CHAPTER XV.

The Dawn of Peace and Prosperity, 1784–1785.

ON January 14, 1784, the Treaty of Peace was finally ratified by the Executive Council of Pennsylvania.[1] This act was to be officially celebrated on the twenty-second of January, but owing to the destruction of the triumphal arch and transparencies it was not done until the tenth of May following, when the official celebration and illumination took place. At noon the High Sheriff of the County of Philadelphia, Bro. Thomas Proctor, a Past Master of Lodge No. 2, attended by the proper officers, made public proclamation of the definite Treaty of Peace concluded between America and Great Britain. This proclamation was signed by Bro. John Dickinson, president of the Executive Council and member of Lodge No. 18, at Dover, Delaware.

[1] The first American flag displayed in the Thames, at London, after the peace of 1783, was on board the ship William Penn, Captain James Josiah, commander, who was a member of Lodge No. 2 of Philadelphia. His widow being present, she there saw the indignation of the populace at the spectacle. They saw such excitement among the people that they so far feared a mobbing as to have had to keep up a vigilant watch, and, especially at night, to guard against any violence. Mrs. Josiah, when one lady expressed her offence at seeing the flag and her wonder at their presumption at displaying it, said: "We win gold and wear it."—Watson's "Annals of Philadelphia," Vol. II. (1844), p. 333.

The general illumination of the city and the Grand Transparencies bearing Masonic and patriotic emblems took place upon the same evening, which happened to be the stated meeting of the Lodge, and according to the minutes, upon above account was "adjourned until the following Thursday."

Another important event of the year was the arrival of Bro. Lafayette in Philadelphia, August 9, 1784, upon his way to Mount Vernon to visit Bro. George Washington, and present him with the Masonic apron, which the Marquise de Lafayette had embroidered for her husband's former commander, and is now treasured in the Museum of the Grand Lodge F. and A. M. of Pennsylvania. Upon the evening of Lafayette's arrival in Philadelphia a stated meeting of Lodge No. 2 was held, but it does not appear that any official notice was taken by the Brethren of the Craft nor by the Grand Lodge, of the presence of our illustrious brother in the city.

Upon the afternoon of August 9, Bro. Lafayette arrived here from New York. He was met at or above Frankford by a large body of citizens and soldiers who escorted him to the city, where an impromptu reception was tendered him at the Coffee House at the southwest corner of Front and Market Street, then kept by Bro. Eleazer Oswald. In the evening he was greeted with a grand illumination of the city.

Bro. Lafayette remained in Philadelphia until August 14, when he took leave of his friends and left with his precious gift for Mount Vernon. He remained at the home of Washington until the end of August, and on the first of September we again learn of his presence in Philadelphia.

During Bro. Lafayette's sojourn in Philadelphia Bro. John Parke, a local poet and member of Lodge No. 2, composed and published the following extempore ode on the arrival of Bro. Lafayette:

The irrecovable decree is past
And high Olympus trembles at the blast,
Which Fame triumphant bears;
Thou'rt free America! the Heavens resound
Nations rejoicing catch the swelling sound.
Thou'rt free—stern Britian hears
A Prince to human kind and Friend, to cause Tyranies sway to end.
    To Lafayette did say:
Go, glory in that envied name,
"A pasport thro' the gates of Fame,"
    A Soldier of America.

Another interesting historical event of the year 1784 was the preaching of a charity sermon by Rev. William White in Christ Church on St. John's Day,

December 27, 1784, before the R. W. Grand Lodge, upon which occasion Rev. Dr. White, who was not a Freemason, walked with the Brethren in procession from the Lodge House to the Church. This sermon was afterwards printed by Hall and Sellers, a copy of which is in the Grand Lodge Library.[2]

The political and social record of the year 1785 is mainly of that uneventful character which usually accompanies the peaceful development of industries and trade. Masonically we have several events of interesting import. The first was a determined effort made to raise funds for the purchase of the Freemason's Lodge in Lodge Alley or else the purchase or building of another for the sole use of the Grand and Subordinate Lodges. How Lodge No. 2 responded to this appeal is shown by the old subscription list which is still extant in our Archives. How all efforts made to secure the old Lodge House dedicated in 1755 failed is also a matter of Masonic history.

[2] Grand Lodge, State of Pennsylvania, December 28, 1784. At an annual Communication of the R. W. Grand Master, and other Grand Officers of the Ancient and Honorable Society of Free and Accepted Masons, and the other Officers of the several Lodges under their jurisdiction, Unanimously Resolved, That the Thanks of this Society be given to the Reverend William White, D.D. for his judicious discourse, delivered in Christ-Church, at their request, on the late Anniversary of St. John the Evangelist, and that he be requested to furnish a Copy for Publication.

By order of the R. W. Grand Master

JOSEPH HOWELL, jun. G. Sec'ry.

One of the interesting events of the year 1785 was the "Consecration of the Sublime Lodge of Perfection." This was made an event of considerable ceremony which included a public Masonic procession, the dedication of the "New Lodge" in Black Horse Alley and ended with a bibulous collation at the City Tavern where toasts were drank to Brother Washington, Franklin and the King of Prussia.

All efforts having failed, in regard to retaining the Freemason's Lodge in Lodge Alley for the uses of the Brethren, Brother Joseph Dean,[3] a member of Lodge No. 2, and later Senior Grand Warden, at an Extra Grand Lodge held October 27, 1785, offered to present a lot of ground to the Grand Lodge, provided they would build upon the same. This lot was situated [3] Joseph Dean, son of Rev. William Dean, a Presbyterian clergyman, was born August 10, 1738, at Ballymenagh, County Antrim, Ireland. He became an importing merchant in Philadelphia, was a signer of the Non-importation Resolutions, at outset of Revolution advanced the General Government $60,000, which he lost eventually. In December, 1776, he was appointed by the Assembly, a member of Committee of Safety, and, on organization of the Board of War, a member of that body. In January, 1781, the Supreme Executive Council appointed him one of the auditors "to settle and adjust the accounts of the troops of the State, in the service of the United States," and in October following Warden of the port of Philadelphia. In 1790 he was appointed one of the Auctioneers of the city. Dean Street (now Camac) from Walnut to Lombard between 12th and 13th takes its name from him. He died September 11, 1795. He was a member of the Moravian Church and was buried in their old ground, Franklin and Vine Sts. He was married twice: First, Francisca McCracken, had two daughters; second, Hannah Boyd, had five sons and one daughter. Portrait by C. W. Peale is in possession of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Walnut Street, containing 70 feet in front and a depth on Walnut Street of 124 feet. Although the situation was at that time far out of town, the Grand Lodge thankfully received the offer: viz.

"Unanimously Agreed, That the Thanks of this Grand Lodge be given to our worthy Brother Joseph Dean, and that that R. W. D. G. Master, Brother Ball and Brother Few be appointed to wait on Brother Dean, acquaint him they will accept the same and assure him that they are perfectly sensible of his generous offer.

"Agreed, That the R. W. Grand Master, D. G. Master Br^rs. Humphreys, Smith and Few be appointed Trustees to receive from Br^r Joseph Dean a Deed in Trust for the use of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania."

At the Grand Communication held on St. John's Day, December, 1785, the deed for this lot was presented to the Grand Lodge, the consideration being ten shillings and a yearly rental of one acorn to be paid on every Saint John the Evangelists Day forever, if lawfully demanded by the said Joseph Dean.

At this meeting a deed or declaration of trust was also executed to Bro. Dean in the presence of the Grand Officers.

Following is an abstract of the Deed from Bro. Joseph Dean to the Grand Lodge; as recorded February 4, 1786, at Philadelphia, in Deed Book D, No. 16, page 29.

JOESPH DEAN.

BORN IRELAND, AUGUST 1-, 1716; DIED PHILADELPHIA, SEPTEMBER 11, 1796

Efforts were made to receive subscriptions for building a house upon the lot at Twelfth and Walnut Streets, but owing to the financial depression and the distance from the city, but few subscriptions were received. At the Grand Lodge held January 21, 1788, it was ordered "That the several Lodges under this Jurisdiction who have appointed Committees to receive Subscriptions for Building a House upon the Lot of Ground in this City, given by Brother Joseph Dean, return to the Grand L. at their next quarterly Comm^n. an account of what monies have been received for that purpose, or what Subscriptions have been made, and the Sec^y is desired to give them notice thereof. Ordered further, that Brothers Williams and Few, who are appointed a Committee for that purpose, furnish a plan for the Building at the next quarterly Communication with the expense thereof."

At the communication June 16, 1788, it was ordered

"That a Committe be appointed to devise Measures for erecting a Building on the Lot of Ground given by Bro. Dean."

No report seems to have been made by this committee. In the meantime Bro. Dean fell into financial difficulty and became a bankrupt, and the commissioners seized this lot, as the conditions of the deed had not been complied with, although it is believed that a temporary structure was erected upon the lot. On November 10, 1791, the Commissioners of Bankruptcy sold the lot to John R. Smith, viz (recorded in Deed Book I C, No. 1, page 236):

"The conditions expressed in the deed to William Adcock etal not having been complied therewith and doubts having arisen respecting the validity of the said conveyance in consequence wherof the said John Wharton etal at public Auction or vendue had at the Merchants Coffee House in the said City of Philadelphia on the 24th day of August, 1791, sold the lot or peice of ground to John R. Smith."

In the following year, 1792, the Grand Lodge recovered the lot for four pounds five shillings, without any conditions. Following is the record:

Bro. Joseph Dean died September 11, 1795, leaving his widow in financial straits. Some years later her situation was brought to the attention of the Grand Lodge.

At the Communication held March 4, 1799:

"A Motion was made by the R. W. G. Master, and Seconded, That the Income of the Lot of Ground, presented to this Grand Lodge by our late Bro^r Joseph Dean, should be vested in Bro Dean's Widow during the Term of her Natural Life, and on the question being taken, it was unanimously agreed to, and the R. W. G. M., the R. W. D. G. M. and Bro^r Samuel Israel were appointed a Committee to carry the same into effect in such manner as shall appear to them to be most advantageous to Bro^r Dean's Widow, and

"On Motion, Resolved, That the Standing Committee of Charity do consider the particular situation of said Widow, and pay due respect to the same."

At the June meeting the following report was made:

"The R. W. Grand Master, (who together with the R. W. Deputy Grand Master had been appointed a Committee to present the above-mentioned sum of D^s. 25 to Bro^r Deans Widow,) Reported, that the R. W. D. G. M. and himself had waited on M^rs. Dean with the same; That she thank'd the Brethren for the attention paid to her and inform'd them that there had been a time when her situation was such that the same would have been of great service to her, but that she now found herself in better circumstances, that she had no doubt but the Brethren had many objects which stood in greater need of it than she did at present, and therefore very politely declined receiving it."

Finally when funds were needed for the new hall erected in Chestnut Street, the Legislature was petitioned for permission to sell the same, the consideration being two thousand dollars:

Jonathan Bayard Smith, Gavin Hamilton and Peter Le Barbier Duplessis, having received authority to sell a certain lot or piece of ground at the S. W. Cor. of 12th and Walnut St., under an Act of the Assembly passed the 23rd day of February, 1809 (P. L. Chap VVI p 22), sold the property to Edward Shippen Burd March 23—1809 for a Consideration of Two Thousand Dollars.—This Conveyance is recorded at Philadelphia in Deed Book I. C. No. 1, page 240.

There was no building upon the property at the time of sale.

An E. A. Lodge opened in due form—Bro Jere^h Fisher attended, and rendered an account of the monies he, rec'd and paid out during the time he acted as Treasurer to the Lodge,—Which they were perfectly satisfied with.

The R. W. Grand Master informed the Lodge that the House we had now in posession, would shortly be disposed of by the proprietors of the same, he therefore hoped this Lodge would adopt some method to assist in making purchase of the House, or to build another.—The matter being duly considered—it was unanimously agreed that Mess. Alex Rutherford, Praise Wadman and Benjamin Nones be appointed a Committe to hand a Subscription for the aforesaid purpose & that the success thereof be paid into the hands of the Grand Treasurer as a free gift to the Grand Lodge, & to take the Grand Treasurer's receipt for the same.

That Lodge No. 2 made a noble response to this appeal from the Grand Lodge is shown by following subscription list:

We, the subscribers, do promise to pay into the hands of Alex. Rutherford, Praise Wadman, and Benj. Nones the sum which we have affixed to our names, being for the purpose of purchasing or building a house for a Lodge, agreeably to a minute of Lodge No. 2 of April 11th, 1785.

Bro. Giese presents his acco[t] as Steward, referred to Committe on accounts.—

After the establishment of "Lodge of Grand Elect, Perfect and Sublime Masons" in Philadelphia, June 25, 1781, as set forth in Vol. I., p. 425, the meetings were held with more or less regularity in the Lodge room, in Videll's Alley, in the old Freemason's Lodge in Lodge Alley, and finally, after the sale of the latter house, in Joseph Morris' building in Black Horse Alley, below Market Street east of Second Street.

The dedication of this Masonic room was an occasion of much ceremony in which all of the various Masonic bodies of the city took part. The following account appeared in the Pennsylvania Journal, No. 2009, September 24, 1785.

Tuesday last being the day appointed for the consecration of the Sublime Lodge of Philadelphia, for confering the superior degrees of Masonry, the brethren assembled at the Lodge-room in Lodge-alley, and walked in procession to the New Lodge in Black-Horse-alley, attended by a band of music. The thrice puisant then opened the Lodge and introduced the business with a suitable prayer, when the constitution and bye-laws were read. After which was delivered, an elegant oration composed by brother Vannost, and a beautiful ode set to music, composed by brother Smith of the sublime lodge.

There has been no instance of a masonic procession which exhibited a more respectable appearance, and the solemnities used in consecrating the lodge were very striking. A pretty collation was prepared by the sublime lodge, for the visiting brethren; and in the afternoon the brethren dined together, at the City-Tavern and spent the day in the greatest harmony. The following toasts were drank:

1. The Sublime Lodge of perfection this day consecrated.
2. Our illustrious Brother the King of Prussia.
3. Our beloved Brother George Washington, the intended Grand Master of America.
4. That dignified Philosopher and Friend to Mankind, Brother Benjamin Franklin.
5. The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.
6. May the rust of discord never corrode the present polished chain of Masonic Fellowship.
7. May health, stability and power be ever the supporters of our Lodge.
8. May Beauty and Merit be the reward of Virtue and Secrecy.
9. The Land we live in.
10. Our worthy Brethren round the Globe.
11. Increase, Love and Unanimity to the antient craft.
12. All Masons who honor the Order by conforming to its rules.
13. The Memory of old.

We understand the Prayer, Ode, Oration, &c. will shortly be be published.

The House is Large, and well suited for many public uses, as well as for a compleat wet or dry goods store, or a dwelling house, the rooms being very large and commodious, the floors supported by strong and substantial Joice, and there being dry and deep Cellars under the whole building, with a chimney to suit a kitchen.

The terms of payment will be—one fourth of the purchase money within one month after the sale; one fourth on the 1st of February—one fourth on the 1st of May, and the last payment on the 1st of August next, with interest.

Posession to be delivered and the deed executed on making the first payment, and giving satisfactory security for the remainder.

A. St Clair & Co. Auctioneers

September 30th 1785

With this sale the building passed out of all control of the Fraternity, and after serving for a time as the banking house of the Bank of Pennsylvania, was finally torn down and the space upon which it stood became part of the garden back of the bank, now in turn supplanted by the United States appraiser's stores.

The proceeds of the sale, belonging to the survivors of the Grand Lodge of Masons, was donated to the city as a fund to "furnish the poor with fire wood."[6]

[6] "The Free Masons' Fund. The origin and object of this charity is fully explained in the following letter: 'To Matthew Clarkson Esq., Mayor of the city of Philadelphia. Dear Sir: Please to inform the Corporation of the city that we, the subscribers, the Trustees appointed by Act of Assembly, for selling the Free Masons' Lodge, in Lodge alley, in the city of Philadelphia, having executed our trust, and called a meeting of the members of the First Lodge of Free Masons, (who formerly contributed their stock towards erecting the said building,) for the purpose of agreeing and declaring to what charitable purpose the one-third part of the produce of the said sale should be applied. It was unanimously agreed, that the same should be given to the Corporation of the city of Philadelphia, to be by them applied towards a fund for supplying out of the interest thereof, the necessitous inhabitants of the said city with fuel in the winter season. We are likewise to inform you that the one-third part of the net proceeds of the said sale amounts to the sum of five hundred and seventy-four pounds, four shillings and eleven pence ($1,533.57), which now remains in our hands, ready to be delivered to the order of the said Corpora-

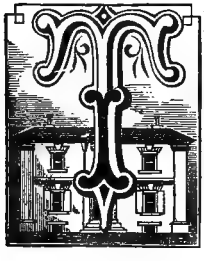
CHAPTER XVI.

The Close of the Provincial Grand Lodge, 1786.



THE chief Masonic event of the year 1786 was the closing forever, September 25, 1786, of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, acting by virtue of a warrant from the Grand Lodge of England. And at a grand convention of thirteen different Lodges, held upon the next day, September 26, 1786, the "R. W. Grand Lodge of F. and A. M. of Pennsylvania, and Masonic Jurisdiction thereunto belonging" was duly formed, as a Grand Lodge independent of Great Britain or any other authority whatever, being under no ties to any other Grand Lodge except those of brotherly love and affection, as the Resolution says: "Which they will always be happy to cultivate and preserve with all Lodges throughout the globe."

The following account of this important action was published three days later in the Pennsylvania Packet, the leading newspaper in the state. (This report was undoubtedly written by Bro Peter Le Barbier Duplessis.)

Sep. 29, 1786.

On Monday last, we are told, a communication took place of the different officers and representatives of the respective lodges, under the government of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, in order to consider the propriety of renouncing their submission in future to the Masonic power and authority of Great Britain, and declaring themselves independent of any foreign jurisdiction whatever. And it was resolved, that the Grand Lodge is, and ought to be perfectly independent and free of any such foreign jurisdiction.

This measure (observes a correspondent) is not without its precedent in the annals of masonry—Such has been the conduct of other lodges similarly circumstanced as ourselves, and seems to arise from the providential order and disposition of human events. For although Masonry disavows any manner of connection with politics or faction, and it is right it should be so, yet considering a separation has taken place between Britain and America, it would be as improper and absurd that we should again yield an obedience to her wild, extravagant claims of power, as that the lodges of this independent country should be subordinate to foreign jurisdictions in any part of the world. Notwithstanding our masonic dependence on Great Britain is now no more, yet those fine spun chords of love and sympathy, by which the fraternity are drawn together, as a band of brothers, cemented by the most indissoluble of ties, will ever induce us to cultivate the most sociable and friendly intercourse. The means of this cultivation and improvement will probably be the frequent subject of our best and most serious disquisitions. We shall endeavor to hold forth every engaging allurement that the members of the British Grand Lodge may approach, and apply their elegant and wonder-working fingers to finish the beauties of so well-ordered a Dome in this New Empire, and make this favorite land, what we really wish, the distinguished residence, the last best retreat of heaven-born Masonry.

And while amid the scientific labors of the lodge, elevated schemes of mutual intercourses, of paternal love will engage, and enrapture our minds: while holy and ancient mysteries warm the imagination with improvements kindred glow: while in the mournful investigation of a brothers wants, pleading pity melts our eye, and generous compassion swells the feeling bosom: while among the cheerful exertions of inoffensive mirth, of heart-enlarging friendly communication, reflection enables us to look back on our proceedings with pleasure—and conscience, the gentle monitor of every bosom, shall find nothing to dislike or disapprove—then let us embrace this opportunity to admire that Hero-King that illuminated Pole-Star of the Sublime Masonic system, whose fame as a prince is beyond all applause, and whom we may justly boast as one of the first and most distinguished friends and lovers of the Royal Art! that ancient and honorable art, for whose promotion and dignity Lodges are opened in every quarter of the globe![1]

[1] The King of Prussia, Founder of the sublime Lodge of Perfection, in this city—in whose exalted praise we beg leave to introduce the following extract from a great and modern historian.

"The King of Prussia alone hath invented a new method of disciplining armies, of heading battles, and of gaining victories. This prince who would have been better served by another nation, and certainly better commended than he could possibly be by his own; who hath not had, since Alexander, his equal in history, for extent and variety of talents, who, without having been himself formed by Greeks, hath been able to form Lacedemonians; he, in a word, who hath deserved, beyond all others, that his name should be recorded

For it is with peculiar pleasure it may be asserted, that in whatever matters men may differ and disagree, yet they are unanimous in venerating an amiable institution, which annihilates all parties, conciliates all private opinions, and renders those who by their Almighty Father were made of one blood, to be also of one heart and one mind: Brethren bound firmly, bound together by that indissoluble tie "the love of their God, and the love of their kind."

"Father of all, in every age,
In every clime adored;
By saint, by savage and by sage,
Jehovah, Jove, our Lord!
To Thee whose temple is all space,
Whose altar, earth, sea, skies,
One chorus let all beings raise,
All nature's incense rise!"

Future and more copious discussions of this high and entertaining theme, may one day perhaps (concludes our correspondent) engage pens far more able than his. For the present to attempt its eulogium would be "wasteful and superfluous excess;"—would be, in the fine language of one of our sublimest bards;

in his age, as a distinction vying in greatness with those of the finest ages of the world; this same King of Prussia hath totally changed the principles of war, by giving in some measure to the legs an advantage over the arms; that is to say, that by the rapidity of his evolutions, and the celerity of his marches, he hath always excelled his enemies, even when he hath not conquered them, all the nations of Europe have been obliged to imitate his example, in order not to be obliged to submit to him. He will enjoy the glory, since it is one, of having raised the art of war to a degree of perfection, from which, fortunately, it cannot degenerate." (Abbe Reynal, 4th vol., p. 452, "Settlem. of East and West Indies.")

"To gild refined gold, to paint the lily;
To throw perfume on the violet:
To smooth the ice; to add another hue
Unto the rainbow; or with taper light
To seek the beauteous eye of Heav'n to garnish."

Another interesting item of our history is the number of applications made to the Provincial Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania for warrants for new Lodges from the time that the independence of the United Colonies was virtually assured until the Grand Lodge itself declared its independence. The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, ever conservative as it was, was held in such esteem throughout the country and the West Indies, that both before and after asserting its independence in 1786, there were more applications for warrants made and granted by this jurisdiction than by all the other ones in this country combined.

Thus we find that our Grand Lodge between the years 1780 and 1786 warranted Lodges in Maryland 4, Pennsylvania 6, New Jersey 2, Delaware 2, South Carolina 3, Virginia 2, Georgia 1, Cape Francois 1.

Among other matters of Masonic interest during this year was the presentation of the first petition to the new Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, from a number of brethren of Lodge No. 2, who intended to withdraw from their lodge and asking that a warrant might be granted for holding another Lodge in the City of Philadelphia. This prayer was granted at the Grand Lodge held in December 18, 1786. The new lodge was warranted as No. 19, with Thomas Proctor, W. M., Charles Young, S. W., and John Melbeck, J. W., thus virtually reviving the warrant of the old Military Lodge attached to the Pennsylvania Artillery Regiment. Following is a list of members of the original Lodge No. 19, who applied for Grand Lodge certificates during the year 1780, one of which, that of Colonel Elias Dayton, is on exhibition in the Grand Lodge library: General William Maxwell, Colonel Elias Dayton, Rev. Doctor Andrew Hunter, Major John Hollingshead, Captain Aaron Ogden, Captain Joseph T. Anderson, Captain John Santford, Lieutenant Derrick Lane, Lieutenant John Peck, Lieutenant Anthony Maxwell, Lieutenant Peter Tallman, Lieutenant Willm Piatt, Bro. John Van Anglon, Captain Ja^s. Pendleton, Captain John Kean, Mr. Thos Armstrong A. Q. M.

If we turn back to the records of the original Military Lodge No. 19, attached to the Artillery Regiment commanded by Col. Proctor it will be seen from these records that when called into active service Colonel Proctor was Worshipful Master of Lodge No. 2. He then vacated, for the time being, his office as Master of No. 2, but immediately assumed the same station in Lodge No. 19, without giving up his membership in Lodge No. 2.

Among several packages of old musty papers lately resurrected from among the archives of the

The Masonic year of 5786 was fittingly closed by a procession and religious services in St. Paul's Church on St. John the Evangelist's Day, December 27, the proceeds of which went to the relief of the poor. The sermon was preached by Rev. Joseph Pilmore, the prayer by Rev. Bro. Samuel Magaw. Both were published in separate editions in Philadelphia and New York and were dedicated to Bro. Benjamin Franklin—"An illustrious Brother, whose distinguished Merit among Masons, Entitles him to their highest veneration."

We have no minute as to St. John the Baptist's Day, June 24, 1786. That it was kept, with the usual feast and attendant social feature, is shown by the following musical program, a copy of which has fortunately come down to us:

The feast of St. John the Baptist's Day, 1786, was celebrated with considerable ceremony. Unfortunately no minute was made of it—the only thing that has come down to us from that festive occasion is the following ode sung by the Brethren:

For the Festival of St. John the Baptist, June 24, 5786.

The Close of the Provincial Grand Lodge

Addressed to the Worshipful Master and Brethren of Lodge No. 2 of Ancient York Masons, Philadelphia.

Tribus aut novem
Miscenter Cyathis Pocula commodis.
Qui Musas amat impares,
Ternos ter Cyathos attonitus petet
Vates: . . . . . Horace.

FULL CHORUS

Jove in his Chair.
Hail Masonry!
Blest beam from on high!
Let thy aid,
Here display'd,
Our bosoms refine:
To Saint John,
Raise the song;
Let our lays:
Sound the praise
Of Masonry divine.

Swift from the skies,
The white-rob'd Seraph flies;
Sent by Jove,
From above,
With a pure spotless train.
From on high, in her eye,
We descry, sympathy,
When she smiles,
She beguiles
Grief and pain.

The muses inspire,
To join the loud choir,
And echo the joyous glad strain.

RECITATIVE

On out-stretched wings of radiant cherubs borne,
More bright than evening bow, or ruddy morn;
With her, lo! charity from Heaven descends,
And glorious freedom in her train attends.

SONG.

Serenely meek in smiles array'd,
Seraphic ardours on her wait,
Celestial virtues shine display'd,
Celestial pomp adorns her state.

RECITATIVE

Around her throne, obsequious move,
Soft compassion, pious love,
Melting pity, hopes that cheer,
And from the wretched drives despair:
Divine benevolence before her stands,
Grace in her smiles, and bounty in her hands.

AIR.

She comes, religion to restore,
To banish care from ev'ry breast;
To raise the sick, relieve the poor,
And give the weak and weary'd rest.

All hail! celestial goddess hail!
O Masonry sublime!
Propitious spread thy sacred veil,
And cover ev'ry crime.

Thy sacrifice all sin attones,
  And still accepted mounts on high;
You ease the wretched brother's groans,
  You wipe the tear from sorrow's eye.

You brighten ev'ry mortal gloom,
  You soften anguish, banish strife;
You smooth our passage to the tomb.
  And fit us for eternal life.

RECITATIVE

As Phoebus in the radiant east displays
His glorious orb, and sends abroad his rays,
The life-inspiring influence spreading round,
To cheer mankind, and fructify the ground:
Within our sacred walls the goddess stands,
Her train, attentive, wait our just commands
Forth at the word each willing cherub springs,
And scatters blessings from its ambient wings;
Knowledge to some, and happiness to all,
Where e'er dispers'd around the spacious ball.

AIR.

Devote to thee
There goddess see
Thy vot'ries knell!
They fervent feel
  Thy soul-exalting fire.
Rejoic'd they rise,
Above the skies,
  Where heav'nly minds aspire,
Celestial guest,
Inflame each breast,

With social ardours, mutual love!
Still, more refin'd,
Make human kind,
'Till each be like the blest above.

RECITATIVE

Hail Masonry—thou principal divine!
In which, unnumbered joys incessant shine;
Whose heav'nly influence dilates the mind,
That glows with charity to all mankind;
Thou perfect emblem of the bliss above
He dwells in God, who dwells in boundless love.

SONG. Dorsetshire March.

Let brethren join hands in support of their laws,
For Heav'n smiles on us, and prospers our cause:
The Lodge which arose under holy Saint John,
New lustre receives under Great Washington.

Then enter the holy of holies again,
With innocence blest, and with hands pure from stain;
Our patron shall smile from the regions above,
And crown us with peace and with brotherly love.

CHAPTER XVII.

Under the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, 1787–1792.

AS set forth in the previous chapter the Provincial Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania declared its independence from any other authority whatever on September 25, 1786. Heretofore little or nothing was known of the particulars of this separation from the parent body from which Pennsylvania Masonry derived its existence. The finding of some of the correspondence by Bro. Sachse in the Archives of the Grand Lodge of England during the summer of 1908 was the first intimation to the Masonic world of this interesting episode. The documents in London were photographed and copied. The finding during the present winter by Bro. John A. Perry in the Secretary's vault of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania of a bundle of old papers which proved to be some scraps of the rough minutes and memoranda dating from 1765 to 1795, enable us, for the first time, to tell the story of how the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania advised the parent body of its action.

At the communication held September 28, 1786, Bros. Edward Fox, J. B. Smith and Thomas D. Smith were appointed a committee to draft a letter to be sent to the Grand Lodge of England taking a formal leave of them.

At the adjourned communication, October 16, 1786, the committee laid before the Grand Lodge the following farewell letter to the Grand Lodge of England, which, being read, was unanimously adopted, approved and signed by all of the Grand Officers.

Brethren

We salute you in all Love and Respect. We acknowledge your past Goodness, and We pray your kind and candid Acceptance of this Address from the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

It having pleased the Grand Master of all Events in human affairs, to dissolve the Political Connection which subsisted between your Country and ours when We were honored with your Warrant, and to change the Situation of this Country into that of a Sovereignty instead of a Province, it has seemed meet to the Brethren here no longer to consider themselves as a Provincial Lodge. Knowing also that those who are not enlightened, being ignorant of our Institution are ever jealous of improper designs and practices, the Brethren have thought it a duty they owe to the Government that protects them, to leave no Occasion of Offence to them by our continuing to acknowledge a foreign Jurisdiction the Extent of which they cannot comprehend. They have accordingly at a Quarterly Communication held in this City at which were present the officers of particular Lodges under their Jurisdiction and Delegates especially appointed and authorized for this purpose resolved as appears by the enclosed copy of their proceedings. We hope and trust that this procedure will meet your approbation; and that we shall continue to receive your salutary councils & brotherly advise and Communications upon every Occasion which may occur to you as requiring it, and on our part we shall look up to you as venerable Masters and Instructors in the Royal Art whenever we find ourselves lacking in Knowledge.

We shall wish never to forget that in love and Harmony you and We are one, and shall be happy in every Opportunity that may offer of shewing by an Interchange of good Offices that your Brethren are also Ours and Ours Yours in every good Word and Work. We are with all the Mystical Honors, in the Name and Behalf of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania in Ample Form assembled

Your truly affectionate Brethren and very hble Servants

ASHTON HUMPHREYS, Grand Secretary

This letter was at once sent to England, addressed to the R. W. Grand Secretary, Laurence Dermott. It was dated October 16, 1786, together with a personal and explanatory epistle.[1]

This communication does not appear to have been received by the authorities in England, as no acknowledgment of it reached the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. After a lapse of two years a duplicate of this letter was sent to England by Bro. Solomon Bush, a member of Lodge No. 2. This was dated November 10, 1788. Brother Bush, upon his arrival in London, by mistake delivered the communication into the hands of the Modern Grand Lodge. It is this second letter from Philadelphia which was found in London, and of which a facsimile is now on exhibition in the Museum of the Grand Lodge in Philadelphia. The officials of this Grand Body thinking that it was a missive from the Grand Lodge of Moderns in Philadelphia over which William Allen and Benjamin Franklin had presided, but which had ceased during the revolutionary period, as already explained, sent the following spicy reply to our Grand Officers.

(Letter Book No. 3, Grand Lodge of England, page 283):

[1] Lawrence Dermott, as Gould states (ii., 435), "was the most remarkable Mason that ever existed." Born in Ireland, 1720, initiated into Masonry in 1740—W. M. Lodge No. 26, Dublin, 1746—two years later went to England; affiliated with Moderns, 1748; later shifted to the "Ancients" and in 1752 was elected Grand Secretary, which office he filled until 1771, when he was appointed Deputy Grand Master, serving until 1777. He was again Deputy from 1783 until 1787. Consequently the Communication addressed to him by the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania as Grand Secretary did not reach England until he was out of all office.

Brethren

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of November 10—1788 rec[d] in November last from Col. Bush advising that it had seemed meet to the Brethren of Pennsylvania no longer to consider themselves as a Provincial Grand Lodge, and had therefore established themselves into a Grand Lodge, in reply I am directed by the Grand Master and Grand Officers to express their surprise and concern at such a step taken without any previous intimation,—their concern you must be convinced does not arise from any pecuniary loss which the Grand Lodge can sustain by the separation of the Brethren of Pennsylvania, but from the injury done to the society at large, by detached parts of it assuming the rank and Jurisdiction of a Grand Lodge, instead of uniting to form one great extensive and respectable Body concenter'd under one common Head for their general welfare, and which Head can surely be no where more properly placed than in the Grand Lodge from whence they all derive and which at no period was ever in a more prosperous and honorable situation than at present when it is patronized and encouraged by the Most Illustrious characters in this Country.

The ostensible reason given for your separation being that the political connection between your Country and ours being disolved cannot of itself be considered as sufficient to warrant your proceedings.

Masonry being an universal and beautiful System of Philanthropy unconnected with the politicks of States or modes of Religion with which the maxims of the Craft wisely forbids us to meddle lest dissentions might ensue.—That it is viewed in this light by our foreign Brethren is evident from many Kingdoms and Sovereign States of Europe, continuing to hold as Provincial Grand Lodges and considering their parent as their centre of Union.

I am directed to assure you that the Grand Lodge of England ever ready to promote the extension and universality of the order will continue to acknowledge and receive in its Lodge the Brethren initiated in the Lodges of America.

With fraternal regard and Respect I have the honor to be.[2]

The surprise of the Pennsylvania brethren may well be surmised when they received this epistle from the Grand Lodge of Moderns in London, owing to the blunder of Bro. Bush in delivering it to the wrong body.

This reply signed by Bro. William White, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Moderns, was read at the Grand Communication, December 6, 1790, whereupon, on motion and seconded, the R. W. Grand Master, Bros. Dr. Wm. Smith, McCree, Vanden Brock and Few were appointed a committee to consider the said letter, prepare an answer, and report at the next communication.

This committee, however, did not make any report until the communication held June 6, 1791, when they presented an answer which was read and approved, and the same committee were requested to procure a fair copy of it, that it may be signed by the Grand Secretary and forwarded, which was done. (Letter Book No. 3, Grand Lodge of England, pages 284–285–286):

PHILADELPHIA November 18. 1791

Brother

Your favor of the 27th March 1790 directed to William Adcock—J. B. Smith,—Joseph Dean and George Ord Esqrs. has been duly received by the hands of Brother Bush.—And in reply I am directed to inform you, that the communication from the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, with which he was charged, was intended for the Grand Lodge over which the Marquis of Antrim now presides, but by mistake it has been delivered to yours.

This mistake has very naturally, led you to suppose that the communication came from the successors of those Brethren who formerly obtained a Provincial Warrant from your Grand Lodge; But this is also a mistake for that warrant has long ceased to Operate in Pennsylvania, and the Body that obtained it has been many years entirely extinct.—

The present Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania was originally organized under the ancient Grand Lodge, by virtue of a warrant granted to them, in the year 5764 [sic] When the Right Honorable Thomas Earl Kelly was Grand Master. Consequently it was to that Grand Lodge that they intended to account for their conduct, and to them only could the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania with Propriety, address their reasons for assuming an Independent Jurisdiction

The Grand Lodge however with pleasure avail themselves of this occasion, to express their attachment to the Royal Craft, under whatever authority it may be conducted and to assure you, that they regard your Grand Lodge with sentiments of the highest respect and veneration—But Masonry, as you justly observe, being a universal and Beautiful system of Philanthropy, unconnected with modes of Religion, or plans of Poleticks; it does not therefore require any concentration of Authority to render it flourishing and respectable: On the contrary, perhaps the extention of the craft would be best promoted by the diffusion of Jurisdiction, since it is certain that the energy and vigor which proceed from the seat of power, decline in proportion to the distance at which it operates.

The erecting of new Grand Lodges therefore, cannot be considered as injurious to the Fraternity so long as they exercise exclusive authority, over a district, whose limits is ascertained.—It is only when their jurisdiction clashes and interferes, that disorder and confusion arise, of which disgrace and disunion are the inevitable consequences.—But while their jurisdiction and authority continue distinct and seperate, they move in the most perfect harmony and order, like the Orbs of Heaven revolving round the Sun, each, in its own sphere reciprocally vivified and Enlightened, and all, bound in one splendid system, by the powerfully attractive influence of that Divine principle of Friendship, affection and Knowledge, which is their common centre and which is the Glory and the boast of our ancient Institution.

Full of this energetic principle, the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, although they have rejected all foreign authority, yet still continue to regard the Brethren in England with unabated warmth of affection; and as they have nothing so much at heart as a more intimate Masonic Union of all the parts of our widely extended Order, they will therefore be happy to keep up that fraternal communication with your Grand Lodge to which an accident has given a beginning and which in their opinion, is absolutely necessary to the general welfare.

With fraternal regard and respect I have the Honor to be

Brother

Your most obed^{t} Humble Servant

P. Le Barbier Duplessis D. G. S^{y}

William White, Esq.

It will be noted that up to this time, November, 1791, the Grand Lodge of Ancients had received no official notification of the secession of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania held forth under their warrant granted July 15, 1761.

To properly notify the parent body the following motion was made at the adjourned communication held October 14, 1791:

"On Motion and seconded, Resolved, that the R^{t} W^{l} G^{d} officers be requested to forward by Bro. Eleazer Oswald[3] such

[3] Eleazer Oswald, born in England about 1755, died in New York, September 30, 1795. When disputes arose between Great Britain and the American colonies his sympathies became enlisted in the American cause, and he came to this country about 1770. He served under Benedict Arnold at Ticonderoga, and became his secretary. At Quebec he commanded a forlorn hope after Arnold was wounded. He was made lieutenant-colonel of Col. John Lamb's regiment of artillery on January 1, 1777, had a high reputation for skill as an artillerist, distinguished himself under Arnold at Compo, and was praised for his gallantry in the official reports of the battle of Monmouth. Leaving the service in 1778, he removed to Philadelphia, Pa., and in April, 1782, began the publication of the "Independent Gazetteer, or the Chronicle of Freedom," which he made the vehicle of violent partisan attacks. He reopened William Bradford's Coffee-House in 1783, and while conducting it published the monthly "Price Current," the earliest commercial paper in the communication as they may think proper to the R^{t} W^{l} G^{d} Lodge of Ancient Masons of England."

Among the remains of the rough minutes found in our Grand Secretary's office a draft of this communication was found, together with a list of what was sent to the Grand Lodge of England by the hands of Bro. Oswald:

The R. W. Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania avail themselves of an opportunity furnished them by Brother Eleazer Oswald who imbarks for London to pay their respects to the R. W. Grand Lodge of England.

We continue to feel that attachment and affection to ye Grand Lodge which is due to those from whom derived our Existence and shall be impressed with happiness in every instance of y^{r} attention: Inclosed is a copy of the proceedings

United States. In August, 1786, he offered to lead a volunteer company of infantry, of which he was captain, to the northern frontier in order to capture from the British the posts that they occupied in violation of the articles of peace. From 1782 till 1787 he published in New York city the "Independent Gazette, or New York Journal Revived," which had formerly been conducted by John Holt, a kinsman of his wife. He was a strong opponent of the political principles of Alexander Hamilton, and challenged the latter to a duel, but their friends adjusted the matter. In 1792 he went to England, and shortly afterward to France, where he joined the Republican army, was commissioned as a colonel of artillery, and commanded a regiment under Gen. Charles F. Dumouriez, at Jemmapes. The government sent him on a secret mission to Ireland to report on the political condition of that country and the feasibility of the projected French invasion. He reached Ireland by a journey through Norway and Scotland, reported to the Minister of Foreign Affairs in France, and, not receiving further instructions, returned to the United States, where he died of yellow fever shortly after his arrival.

of the late Provincial Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, then held by virtue of your warrant. The measure we trust will meet y^{r} approbation because of s^{d} peculiar situation of this Country in general and of the dangers which would have arisen to the Craft had not this been done, particularly from Circumstances of our being open to the influx of masons of every description and variant forms of working, from every foreign jurisdiction. Immediately after the above acts on our part we transmitted to ye G. S. Bro Lau: Dermott a copy of our transactions, with a particular detail of ye reasons, and of the state of the Craft. Receiving no answer to this we forwarded a duplicate by a Brother Bush who unfortunately by mistake delivered our dispatches to the Modern Grand Lodge of England.

We trust we shall now succeed in this third attempt as Brother Oswald seems himself interested in paying his own and our respects to the antient craft. He bears our certificate, and is personally respected by said Brethren

Any Communications by him will be gratefully received, and we shall be happy in every intercourse of fraternal friendship and information

Names of Grand officers

To Brother Oswald may be committed in fullest Confidence anything on your part respecting the Craft under y^{r} Jurisdiction or elsewhere, its present state and regulations on such instructions and advice as you may deem for the good of Masonry in this New World and preserving its benign reciprocal intercourse with the old. For ye further satisfaction we forward our book of Constitutions and our later byelaws of which we hope you will approve but shall also be happy to receive any observations.

How well Bro. Oswald performed his mission is shown by the reply sent by the English Masonic authorities to our Grand Lodge.

It is further a noteworthy fact that the error made by Bro. Bush in delivering his message to the Grand Lodge of Moderns in 1788 was the means of bringing about fraternal relations between that body and our own Grand Lodge, and it is believed that this is the only case on record where a foreign Grand Body was in fraternal communication with both of the English Grand Lodges. As a matter of fact it was the precursor of the final union of the two English Grand Lodges which came to a happy consummation some twenty years later.

Following is the communication from the Grand Lodge of England (Ancients). This was read before the Grand Lodge in Philadelphia, December 3, 1792:

QUARTERLY COMMUNICATION.

December 3d, 1792.

Present, the R^t^ W^l^ J. B. SMITH, Grand Master.

The R^t^ W^l^ Grand Master presented communications from the R^t^ W^l^ Grand Lodge of England, according to the old institutions, which were read as followeth (to wit):

To the Right Worshipful, the Grand Lodge of the Most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania.

Right Worshipful Brothers: It is with much satisfaction that in conformity to the resolution of the Grand Lodge of England, herewith transmitted, and in their name, we address you on this occasion.

We rejoice on the restoration of a fraternal intercourse and communication between our respective Grand Lodges, which we cannot but lament had ever been suspended, and which the Grand Lodge of England agree forever to cultivate and support.

The accession of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania to a fraternal alliance with the Grand Lodge of England, and consequently with the several Grand Lodges in the different quarters of the globe in alliance with that of England, so conducive to the honor and interest of our ancient craft, must necessarily be highly satisfactory to the Masonic world at large.

Having perused your Book of Constitutions, we reflect with pleasure that the Grand Lodge of England has given birth to a Grand Lodge in the Western world, whose strict adherence to the ancient and immutable landmarks of our order reflects honor on its original founders. Here we must beg leave to state that we conceive that in constituting your Grand Lodge we necessarily communicated to it the same independent sovereign Masonic authority within your jurisdiction which we ourselves possessed within ours, amenable to no superior jurisdiction under Heaven, and subject only to the immutable landmarks of the craft. All Grand Lodges in Masonry being necessarily Free, Independent, and Equipollent within their respective jurisdictions, which consequently excludes the idea of subjection to a foreign authority or the establishment of an Imperium in Imperio.

It having, however, pleased the Almighty Architect of the Universe to erect the Province Pennsylvania into a sovereign State, we coincide with you in opinion, that it became expedient to remove those doubts which either had or might be entertained by the uninformed upon that point, by declaring in the most explicit manner the independence of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, the full and ample authority of which, limited only be the unchangeable landmarks of the system, as it cannot be increased, so neither can it ever be diminished by political changes or revolutions.

The Principles of pure Masonry like those of true morality must in every age and nation remain the same, unmoved by the shock of Empires or the vicissitudes of human events.

We transmit to you, herewith, our circular letter to the Lodges under our jurisdiction, for the current year, containing a list of our Grand Officers, and those of the Grand Lodges in alliance with us according to their last communications for the present year, to which we have to add that of the Grand Lodge of Lower Canada.

It is with pleasure we inform you of the increasing prosperity of Free Masonry, not only under our jurisdiction, but under that of the different Grand Lodges in the different quarters of the globe united with us.

We are with esteem and best wishes for your Grand Lodge, and the Craft under its Jurisdiction, Right Worshipful Brothers,

[SEAL.]

Your sincere friends and Brothers,

JAMES AGAR,
Dep'y Grand Master.

ROBT. LESLIE,
Grand Secretary.

Grand Lodge of the most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of England according to the Old Institutions.

His Grace, the Duke of Athol, Grand Master.

Dispatches from the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, bearing date the 18th of November last, and of 25th of October, 1782, and two resolutions of that Grand Lodge of the 25th September, 1786, were communicated by the Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master, which were read and ordered to be entered on the minutes. His Worship also informed the Grand Lodge that a book of the Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania had been sent with the dispatches, which he had perused and found perfectly conformable to the Landmarks of the Ancient Craft, and after congratulating the Grand Lodge on the restoration of the fraternal intercourse between this Grand Lodge and that of Pennsylvania, he proposed and it was Resolved, unanimously, That a brotherly address be transmitted to the Right Worshipful the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, acknowledging their friendly communications and approving thereof, and that a fraternal intercourse and correspondence be established between this Grand Lodge and that of Pennsylvania forever, in the same manner as between this Grand Lodge and the Grand Lodges of Scotland, Ireland, and the other Grand Lodges throughout the Masonic World.

ROBERT LESLIE,
Grand Secretary.

Whereupon, on motion and seconded, the same were ordered to be inserted on the minutes, and referred to Bros. McCree, Bankson, Kidd, Johnston, and Mason, to report thereon at the next Quarterly Communication, and Brother Grand Secretary was directed to send copies of the said communication to the respective Grand Lodges in the United States, and others in alliance with this Grand Lodge.

The third minute book of Lodge No. 2 closes with the election of officers for the ensuing six months from St. John's Day, June 24, 1787.

The next minute book begins under date of July 2, 1789. In the preamble of this book it states that the old Lodge had become extinct without however giving any dates or facts. It will be noted that the last entry of 1787 gives the installation of the officers for the coming Masonic year. That there was some trouble in the Lodge at that time, is gleaned from following resolutions in Grand Lodge, December 17, 1787:

Ordered—that the Grand Sec'y summon the members of No. 2, who have declined their meetings for some time past, to convene themselves for the purpose of considering the present State and situation of the same.

At the subsequent quarterly communications of the Grand Lodge we find the following entries:

March 31, 1788.—The Grand Sec'y informed the Lodge, that agreeable to orders given him, at last quarterly Communication, he had convened the members of No. 2, of which he himself was a member.

That in consequence thereof, at a meeting of said Lodge, a committe were appointed to collect the Sentiments of the several members of that Lodge, but that the said Lodge had never since met. Whereupon, on Motion and Seconded,—Resolved,—That the Grand Sec'y he directed to convene the members of No. 2, again, and in case of a failure to demand their warrant, &c, In order that it may be returned to the Grand Lodge.

December 15, 1788.—The Business Respecting No. 2, continued.

Until the quarterly communication held March 30, 1789, Lodge No. 2 was regularly represented in Grand Lodge, and must have been working under their warrant up to that time.

That there had been more or less friction among the brethren of Lodge No. 2 for the past eighteen months is shown by above quotations.

Just what was the cause of this trouble has thus far been a sealed book. According to an old tradition the trouble was a political one in which the election of Washington to the presidency is mentioned as the chief factor. But there is nothing of record to sustain this. It must, however have been of a different origin, as it had its beginning long before the presidential election in 1789. Further, if the cause was of a political nature it was probably caused by the excitement incident to the adoption of the federal constitution. The finding of a bundle of old papers in the archives of our Grand Lodge, marked "Proctor[4]

[4] Thomas Proctor, born in Ireland in 1739; died in Philadelphia, Pa., March 16, 1806. On October 27, 1775, he applied to the committee of safety to be commissioned captain of an artillery company to be raised for garrisoning Fort Island, and was immediately commissioned with authority to raise his company. In August, 1776, his command was raised to a battalion, of which he was appointed major. On February 7, 1777, he was commissioned colonel, with instructions to raise an entire regiment of artillery. In September, 1778, his regiment became a part of the Continental army, and he received his commission of colonel of artillery, May 18, 1779. He was in Wayne's Bergen Neck expedition, and was satirized by André in the "Cow Chase"— vs. Young'' evidently goes far to solve the conundrum. These two brethren were among the leading spirits of Lodge No. 2, as well as close friends and partners in some financial ventures, and in 1786 both brethren were prominent in the withdrawal from Lodge No. 2 and the revival of Lodge No. 19. It appears, however, that both men still kept an interest in the old Lodge, and when eventually a disagreement arose between the two about a financial venture, their friends in the old Lodge took sides as the strife increased, and the matter came before the Grand Lodge. The finding of the trial committee was as follows:

The Committee appointed to inquire into the Facts set forth in the Petition of several Brethren to the Grand Master in Behalf of Brother Charles Young,[5] which was read in Grand Lodge at the Communication in December 1788.

"Sons of distant Delaware,
And still remoter Shannon,
And Major Lee with horses rare,
And Proctor with his cannon."

He resigned in 1781 on account of differences with Joseph Reed, president of the Pennsylvania council, and in 1783 was chosen high sheriff of Philadelphia, which office he held three years. In 1790 he was made city lieutenant; in 1791 a commissioner to treat with the Miami Indians. In 1793 he became brigadier-general of the Pennsylvania troops, and marched against the whiskey insurgents at the head of the first brigade. After this he became major-general of the Philadelphia militia. He was one of the founders of the St. Tammany Society in Philadelphia, of which he was a sachem. A part of Col. Proctor's regiment of artillery has maintained its organization to the present time as the Second United States Artillery.

[5] Charles Young was a prominent merchant in Philadelphia.

Beg leave to Report

That in Consequence of their Appointment they summoned the said Brother Charles Young and also Bro Thomas Proctor, the Brother principally alluded to in the said Petition, to appear before them—That the said Brethren, in Obedience to such Summons having appeared, Brother Young charged Brother Procter with having at divers Times and places, made certain allegations to the great Injury of his Character and Reputation, and the Consequent Detriment and Prejudice of himself and Family—That the said Brother Procter being called upon, by your Committee to reply to this Charge, exhibited on his part certain Charges against Brother Young, imputing to him a Conduct altogether unworthy an honest Man or a Member of our Fraternity—That your Committee before they entered into an Investigation of those reciprocal Charges, obliged the Parties to declare in the most solemn Form used among the Masons, that each of them would strictly abide by whatever this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge should on the Report of your Committe make in the Premises —That the Committee then proceeded to hear the Parties Examine their Witnesses, and compare their Vouchers and after spending a considerable Time, in a patient Hearing of the Charges and Defense of each Party, a strict examination of the Testimony adduced, and a careful Attention to their several and respective Vouchers, it appeared to your Committee, that a great deal of Matter had been laid before them which did not immediately relate to the difference subsisting between Brothers Procter and Young, and which therefore was not within the Designs of their Appointment. This extraneous Matter they have for these Reasons deemed an improper Subject for their Deliberation, and Consequently have confined their Enquiries to the Conduct of the said

Brethren in those particulars only which immediately Respect each other—That the Dispute between those Brethren, also involved matter of Account, each of the Parties supposing a balance due to him from the other; and altho' in ordinary Cases, the Committee would have endeavored to ascertain where the Balance ought to be; yet Considering Brother Youngs particular Situation they have deemed it most prudent not to enter into a strict Examination of this part of the Business, as the Determination of the Committee or of this Lodge if even subscribed by the Parties, would have no Influence upon Brother Young's Assignees, who can be governed in this particular only by a Decision in the Manner prescribed by law—And as any Opinion which your Committee should give, might be injurious to one of the Parties without benefitting the other, these Considerations, so far as the said Charges involve Matters of Account, have influenced your Committee to leave them to legal Decision, if the parties should think necessary—But so far as the Committee have thought themselves authorized, to investigate the specific Charges of the Parties, they are unanimously of opinion, that the Testimony adduced, is not sufficient to support any of those Charges—Yet from a general View of the whole Proceedings, they are obliged to observe, (altho' with the utmost Regret and Reluctance) that both the said Brethren have inconsiderately deviated from the Path of Masonic Duty—That transported, perhaps by Warmth of Temper, they have not discovered that Tenderness for the Weakness and Frailty of human Nature, which as Members of Society they ought to entertain, and which, by becoming Masons, they in a more especial Manner, ought to exercise towards each other—That instead therefore of throwing a Veil over Foibles, which are perhaps inseparable from Humanity, they have manifested

a spirit very unbecoming that Brotherly Affection which is peculiarly Characteristick of Masonry, and by mutual Recriminations have poisoned those Wounds which they have mutually inflicted, and which might otherwise have been easily healed—Your Committee considering that Benevolence, Charity, Forbearance, Good Will and the forgiving of Injuries, are among the Qualities which ought in a special Manner to mark the Conduct of the Members of our ancient Fraternity; and being desirous that Brothers Procter and Young should Reassume that Line of Conduct which becomes their Masonic Character and from which they have provoked each other to depart, submit the following Resolution:

Resolved That as it appears to our Committee that the Charges reciprocally made by Brothers Thomas Procter and Charles Young against each other, have not been supported, That therefore the said Brethren be enjoined seriously to consider the solemn and endearing Ties, by which they are connected together as Masons—That by a mutual Exchange of good Offices, they bury in Oblivion all and every Matter and Thing, which has heretofore been the Cause of creating any Animosity between them, and that in Order to close forever this unhappy Breach, restore Harmony to our Fraternity and prevent the Improprieties which have been done and written upon this occasion, from ever transpiring to the prejudice of our ancient and sacred Institution, all the Books and Papers which relate solely to this Subject, be totally and entirely Destroyed.

PROVINCIAL WARRANT OF LODGE NO 2

WM. BALL, Grand Master,
JOHN COATS, Deputy Grand Master.

ALEX. RUTHERFORD, Senior Grand Warden.

JACOB S. HOWELL, Junior Grand Warden.

To all whom it may concern:

[L. S.] WHEREAS, by a Warrant bearing Date the seventh day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, and of Masonry five thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight, under the seal of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Ancient Masons, in the city of London, supersigned by the Right Worshipful and Right Honorable, William, Earl of Blessinton, Grand Master, William Holford, Esq., Deputy Grand Master, Robert Goodman, Senior Grand Warden, Wm. Osborne, Junior Grand Warden, and undersigned Laurence Dermott, Grand Secretary. With the approbation and consent of Forty-seven regular York Lodges, the following Brethren, viz: the Worshipful George Brook, Master, Joseph Croker, Senior Warden, and John Macauly, Junior Warden (with their lawful assistants), were authorized and appointed to hold a Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons in the city of Philadelphia, or elsewhere, in the Province of Pennsylvania, and in the said Lodge (when duly congregated), to admit, enter, and make Masons according to the Ancient and honorable custom of Royal Craft, in all Ages and Nations throughout the known world; and also with the further right, privilege, and authority to nominate, choose, and instal their successors, as by the said warrant

(reference being hereunto had) may more fully appear. And, Whereas, the said warrant, which was Registered as No. 69 of Ancient York Masons, in England, but has been held as No. 2 in Pennsylvania (being the eldest Warrant under the authority of the Grand Lodge of Ancient York Masons which is now in this State), hath been surrendered up to us, the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, by the present officers and Brethren of the said Lodge No. 2, praying that the same may be renewed, establishing and confirming them and their successors (under the authority of this Grand Lodge) in the Rank, Dignity, Preheminence, and Masonic Privileges to which they are duly entitled by their former warrant, inasmuch as the present situation of affairs permits them not to hold that correspondence with the Grand Lodge (from which they derived their original authority) which the laudable customs and rules of Masonry require. Now, be it known, to all whom it may concern, That we, the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, and the District of America, associated and united under our authority, viz.: The Right Worshipful William Ball, Esq., Grand Master, John Coats, Esq., Deputy Grand Master, Mr. Alexander Rutherford, Senior Grand Warden, and Mr Jacob Samuel Howell, Junior Grand Warden, with the full authority and consent of twenty-four regular Lodges under our Jurisdiction, Do hereby renew and confirm to our trusty and well-beloved Brethren Jacob Bankson, Esq., Master, Mr Samuel Jervis, Senior Warden, Mr William Cornelius Bradford, Junior Warden, and the other regular and lawful members of the said Lodge No. 2, of Ancient York Masons, in Philadelphia, and to their true and lawful successors for ever, all the Masonic Rights, Privileges, Authority, Jurisdiction, and Preheminence which (by their said Original Warrant herein above referred to and in part recited) they are, or may be, in any manner or way entitled to hold and enjoy; Provided, always, that the above-named Brethren and members of the said Lodge, and their successors, continue at all times to pay due respect and obedience to this Right Worshipful Grand Lodge, agreeably to the Rules and Ordinances lawfully made, or to be made, for the Benefit of Masonry, and the advancement of our Royal Craft, otherwise this Warrant to be of no force or virtue.

Given under our hands and the seal of the Grand Lodge, at Philadelphia, this tenth day of February, in the year of our Lord 1780, and of Masonry 5780

Jno. Wood, Grand Treasurer.

WILLIAM SMITH, Grand Secretary

Recorded this 17th day of January, 1783

JOSEPH HOWELL, Jr. Dy Gd Secy.

As has been shown, the Lodge was represented in Grand Lodge March 30, 1789. In June 15, 1789, we, however, find the following:

Read a Petition from several Brethren, late members of Lodge No. 2, praying a warrant, to be called No. 2, in the Name of Praise Wadman, Master Jacob Bankson, S. W., and John Salsbury, J. W. Ordered that the prayer of the Petitioners be granted.

A warrant was made out forthwith to take the place of the Provincial Warrant and on the twenty-fourth of June the officers were installed by the Grand Officers, and the first Lodge held under the new warrant on Thursday, July 2, 1789.

THE FOURTH MINUTE BOOK OF LODGE No. 2.

"Lodge No. 2 Antient York Masons having for many years been a very Respectable Lodge held in the City of Philadelphia, but having become extinct several of its Members being desirous that it should again be revived applied to the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania for a Warrant in consequence of which application a Warrant did issue from the said Grand Lodge, bearing date Philadelphia the 24th day of June A. D. 1789 and of Masonry 5789 authorizing and impowering Brother Praise Wadman, Master, Jacob Bankson, Senior Warden, and John Salsbury, Junior Warden of a New Lodge No. Two to be held in the City of Philadelphia in the State of Pennsylvania or within Five Miles of the same and also authorizing and impowering them and their Successors to admit and make Free Masons according to the most Antient and Honorable Custom of the Royal Craft in all Ages and Nations throughout the known world and not contrary wise, as will fully appear by having Reference to said Warrant. And the said Warrant having been so obtained as aforesaid the First Lodge under the authority of the same was held at Philadelphia, Thursday, July 2, 1789.

[The death of Benjamin Franklin took place April 17, 1790. This occurrence, it would naturally be supposed, would have elicited from the Freemasons resolutions of sorrow, and it might have been expected that they would participate in public testimonials of respect for the character of the deceased; but in those solemnities the Masons as an organization took no active part. They did not attend the funeral in a Masonic character, nor did they pass resolutions of respect, such as were passed by other societies. The fact was Dr. Franklin was not an "Ancient" Mason. Although he was a Past Grand Master of the "Moderns," those distinctions won for him no official consideration with the "Ancients"—hence their non-participation in the ceremonies of sepulture and regret.]

On St. John's day, December 27, 1791, a suitable oration was delivered before the Grand Lodge and the Brethren in the morning, and at three o'clock in the afternoon a dinner to celebrate the feast was provided at Oeller's Hotel, on the south side of Chestnut Street, just west of Sixth Street. This was the first official celebration of St. John's Day since Washington had been elected President of the United States. In the meantime, during the year, Philadelphia had been selected for the capital city, and Washington resided on the south side of Market Street east of Sixth.

Upon this festive occasion, the Rev. Bro. Dr. Smith and the R. W. Grand officers, were appointed a committee to prepare an address to our "Illustrious Bro. George Washington, President of the United States," the original draft of which, as well as a copy as delivered to Washington, is shown in the Grand Lodge Library. It was as follows:

To His Excellency George Washington, President of the United States.

Sir and Brother:

The Ancient York Masons of the Jurisdiction of Pennsylvania, for the first time assembled in General Communication to celebrate the Feast of St. John the Evangelist, since your Election to the Chair of Government in the United States, beg leave to approach you with Congratulations from the East, and in the pride of Fraternal affection to hail you as the Great Master Builder (under the Supreme Architect) by whose Labours the Temple of Liberty hath been reared in the West, exhibiting to the Nations of the Earth a Model of Beauty, Order and Harmony worthy of their Imitation and Praise.

Your Knowledge of the Origin and Objects of our Institution; its Tendency to promote the Social Affections and harmonize the Heart, give us a sure pledge that this tribute of our Veneration, this Effusion of our Love will not be ungrateful to you; nor will Heaven reject our Prayer that you may be long continued to adorn the bright List of Master workmen which our Fraternity produces in the terrestrial Lodge; and that you may be late removed to that Celestial Lodge where Love and Harmony reign transcendent and Divine; where the Great Architect more immediately presides, and where Cherubim and Seraphim, wafting our Congratulations from Earth to Heaven, shall hail you Brother.

By order and in behalf of the Grand Lodge of [SEAL] Pennsylvania in general Communication assembled in ample form

Attest: P. LE BARRIER DUPLESSIS, Gd. Secry.

January 2, 1792.—A Grand Lodge by adjournment was held and the report of the committee was submitted and adopted. The exact date upon which this address was delivered and answered is not known. At the grand quarterly communication held March 5, 1792, it was unanimously resolved that the said address and answer thereto should be entered upon the minutes. The original answer is to be seen in the Grand Lodge Library.

TO THE ANCIENT YORK MASONS OF THE JURISDICTION OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Gentlemen and Brothers:

I receive your kind Congratulations with the purest Sensations of fraternal affection, and from a Heart deeply impressed with your generous wishes for my present and future Happiness I beg you to accept of my thanks.

At the same time I request you will be assured of my best wishes and earnest prayers for your Happiness while you remain in this terrestrial Mansion, and that we may hereafter meet as brethren in the Eternal Temple of the Supreme Architect.

(Signed) G. WASHINGTON.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Close of the Eighteenth Century, 1793–1799.

THE year 1793 was a portentous one. Philadelphia, having become the seat of the federal government, became a haven for a class of emigrants, who were destined to exert a baneful influence upon our whole social and political economy, and for a time even threaten the stability of our government, going so far as to attempt the impeachment and overthrow of President Washington. These emigrants were known as French emigrés. The first to arrive were fugitive royalists, then came the fugitives from San Domingo and later Genet, the representative of the French Republic, and his followers. The story of the French agitators is well known; how they decried all religion and, during the Epidemic of that fateful year, succeeded in closing all but two churches in the city.[1]

From our minutes, however, we find that this agitation by the misguided foreigners had but little or no effect upon our Lodges. This tide of atheism and rationalism found no entrance within the tiled portals of our halls. Regular meetings were held and the work done during the whole of this trying period, with the great light of Freemasonry always present and unclouded.

Even during the fearful epidemic of the year 1793 regular stated meetings were held, until the middle of September, when the death rate had increased at such a terrible rate that the Grand Lodge ordered a suspension from labor until all danger was past and the health and population had returned to its normal conditions.

In the report of the Centennial Committee of Lodge No. 2 of November 15, 1858, we find the following:

> The memorable yellow fever year 1793 was a period when Masonry blazed forth in its brightest light. The craft in that year was found at the bedside of suffering humanity, tending and conmforting the sick in their dying hours. The members of Lodge No; 2 deserted their Lodge Room but met weekly at each other's houses, and there consulted as to their conduct. The masonic work of the craft was entirely neglected for the social duties of the fraternity, and the yearly dues were for that year remitted. Theirs was a glorious but melancholy vocation for seven of the members fell victims to the fearful epidemic.[2]

Some idea of the condition of the city during the summer of this year may be formed from the following gleanings from the official reports, viz., from

August 1 to November 9 there were no less than 4,041 deaths from the epidemic in Philadelphia. Of the 6,327 dwelling houses then in Philadelphia 2,728 were abandoned by the owners, and 11,906 of the white inhabitants out of a total of 34,835 fled from the city.[2]

Among the members of the Citizen's Committee formed to alleviate the sufferings of the afflicted, no names shine out brighter than those of Brothers Stephen Girard, Lodge No. 3, Israel Israel, Lodge No. 3, and Mathew Clarkson.

How this terrible plague affected our fraternity becomes apparent from the pages of our old minute books in the record of the many cases of relief to the widows and orphans of our deceased brethren.

The following graphic account of the dreadful scourge was written by a Brother Mason in Philadelphia and sent to the Freemason's Magazine in London, wherein it was published.[3]

PHILADELPHIA, October 16, 1793.

From the first appearance, till towards the close of August the dangerous enemy we had in the city was hardly known;

[2] The yellow fever of 1793 first made it appearance at The Red Stores belonging to Summere & Brown which were in the second wharf above Arch Street. The first victims were: (1) Mrs. Maria Lemaigre (widow of Peter Lemaigre, merchant of 77 North Water Street, 1793), a French lady; (2) the stevedore of the ship that brought it to the wharf, and (3) Mr. William Burkhard, of 57 North Water Street. Ritter's "Philadelphia and her Merchants," p. 26.

[3] Freemason's Magazine, London, November, 1793, p. 527.

the deaths of several persons were successively announced in the Papers, and read with the unconcern usual on such occasions.

At length, the alarm spread through the city. The destructive nature of the disease was generally known, and many persons, aware of the danger, removed with their families to different parts of the country. Numbers of our most useful and respectable citizens who remained in the city, were hurried into eternity.

The terror now became universal. The emigrations to the country were very great—and about the middle of September, it is supposed, that 12 or 15,000 of the inhabitants of Philadelphia had deserted the city.

But it is time our fellow citizens throughout the United States, should know as nearly as possible the real state of our city. The mortality which has raged, has carried off to this day about 3000 persons. About 23,000 people have left city, and above 30,000 remain behind. These, notwithstanding the terror of the country people, find plentiful markets. Beef is sold 7d.—mutton 5d.—veal 7d.—butter 1s. 6d. 1s. 8d. and 2s. per pound; and in general all other articles in proportion. Business is not entirely at a stand. Many stores are still open, and even now, not many more than half our houses are deserted. The Banks have not ceased discounting a single day since the commencement of this disorder.

Among the most revolting circumstances attending this scourge, is the cruelty exercised against some who are, and many who are only supposed to be, infected. Two or three persons, travelling in the stages to New-York, being taken sick, were compelled by their fellow passengers to leave the stage, with their baggage, when on the road, wearied and distressed, they could procure no relief, nor shelter—but absolutely perished with sickness and hunger. On the Lancaster road, a similar instance occurred. There have been very many instances, in which as soon as a person was seized with the fever, he was immediately abandoned by friends and relations, and resigned to the care of perhaps a single negro. This has been the case of persons of great affluence. And there are not wanting cases of persons so totally deserted, as to be without a human being to hand them a drink of water. Parents have deserted their children—children their parents—husbands their wives—and wives their husbands. It is probably not exaggeration to suppose that a fourth or a fifth of the whole of the persons who have died, have been sacrificed through the consternation of those who ought to have taken care of them. Since the early terrors have been dispelled, these desertions have become rare.

Unfortunately we have had, for a continuance of time, a series of weather uncommonly favourable to this disorder. For above two months we have hardly had any rain; and during that time, there have not been above ten or twelve cool days. It is worthy of particular attention, that the degree of mortality has depended greatly on the degree of heat. On very sultry days, the number of deaths has been much greater than on cool days. A fall of rain last night, accompanied with cold weather, which continues this day, has made a most flattering change in the prospects of this city. The discordant opinions and practices of the gentlemen of the faculty have been a great means of distroying the confidence of the public in their prescriptions. Dr. Rush and some other Physicians, have strongly advised bleeding, and purges of calomel and jalap. They have been very successful. Others have rested their hopes principally on the cold bath, bark, generous living, and a few occasional glasses of old Madeira.

On St. John's Day, Friday, December 27, 1793.—A charity sermon was preached in St. Paul's Church in Philadelphia by Rev. Samuel Magaw, D.D., before the Grand and Subordinate Lodges for the purpose of increasing the relief fund. There is a well-founded tradition that President Washington was present upon this occasion, and that he made ample contribution to the fund. This latter fact is proven by the following minute in the Grand Lodge records:

St. John's Day, December 27, 1793.

Grand Lodge

"Resolved, that Bro. Proctor and Poor be requested to wait upon His Excellency, Bro George Washington, with the Compliments of the Day, and respectful Thanks of the Grand Lodge for his generous Donation to the Poor."

In anticipation of above celebration the following notice appeared in the papers of December 21, 1793.

Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, December 18, 1793.

On next St John's day, Friday the 27th instant, the Grand Lodge will attend divine service at St. Paul's Church, where a sermon will be delivered, at their request, by the Rev. Dr. Magaw.

The officers and brethren of the several Lodges, and all sojourners of the craft, are requested to join in the solemnity which has for its more immediate object the alleviating of the distresses of the needy, the widow and the orphan, reduced by the late calamity to a situation calling peculiarly for the ossistance of the brethren

By order of the R. W. Grand Master,

P. Le Barbier Du Plessis, Gr. Sec'ry.

N. B.—The Grand Lodge, deeply impressed with a sense of the calamity to which their brethren and fellow citizens have been subjected, have unanimously agreed to relinquish the accustomed feast on the said day.

The committee appointed to arrange and superintend the intended procession on next St. John's day, inform their brethren who may incline to join the Grand Lodge, that the doors of the Grand Lodge room, corner of Arch and fifth streets, will be opened at 9 o'clock, and the Grand Lodge move at 10 precisely, in the forenoon, to the church.

It is hoped that the brethren will be influenced by that spirit of unanimity and brotherly love which characterize Masons, to be punctual in their attendance; and that heaven born charity, which pervades and adorns the human heart, will effectuate the purpose of the Grand Lodge, by procuring substantial assistance in relieving the wants of the needy, and the distress of the mourning widow, and the unhappy situation of the lonely orphan, many of which description are thrown on the attention of the Grand Lodge by the late unhappy calamity in this city.

Tickets, without which no brother shall be permitted to join in the procession, may be had of either of the subscribers.

December 21 1793

The following Masonic prayer was made by Rev. Bro. Magaw, before the sermon:

O thou who sittest between the Cherubims! eternal in excellency! and builder of all worlds! Wisdom, strength and beauty dwell with thee! Thy Being we adore! thy works we view with wonder! and in the midst of these, the pillars of thy temple, we trace the stately footsteps of the GREAT I AM!—May the proportion, order and arrangement, there so brightly visible, convey an assimilating influence to the temple of human minds!

Center of Happiness! from whom we have turned away—"Raise up, we pray thee, thy power, and come among us." Renew that sweet attraction, by which we shall again come near to thee; and live, and move, and duly act, in the honorable places thou didst assign us from the beginning.

Source of Light! destroy the covering of darkness cast over so many faces! Send thy purifying radiance, that we may be light in thee! By the leading of thy truth, as by the kindly star in yonder EAST, manifest the EVERLASTING WORD! Shew us the brightness of the Father's glory.

God of Love! who hast made it divinely known, that all our doings, without charity, are nothing worth, pour into our hearts that most perfect gift, the very bond of purified communications, and of all the virtues! Impart to us the spirit that should endue; the graces that should adorn; the skill that should accomplish workmen who need not be ashamed—Give the generous wish—the feeling heart; and, when there is opportunity, the liberal hand!

Father of All! who are no respecter of persons—ere long, may every kindred and people, from the east and from the west, from the north and from the south, see thy great salvation! and be associated into one brotherhood—and their symbol, and their name, be one! Reveal over the whole earth, the mystery hid from ages—the decree of deliverance through SHILOH, who is come!

Bountiful Sovereign! bestow furtherance and blessing upon all who breathe benevolence, and strive to dwell together in unity! Refresh them as with the dew of Hermon! Enrich them as with the gold of Ophir! Put on them beautiful garments! and let them be all-glorious within!

Infinite of Goodness! Friend of Man! Countenance, in particular, thy servants here present on this occasion—persons of various orders, and several denominations; yet declaring to consent in this one business—to love one another, and to do extensive offices of kindness. Preserve unbroken, this ancient bond! Brighten this chain of venerable friendship! Keep them from the evil that is in the world! Suffer them not to touch an unhallowed thing, nor confusion to mar their work! "May all the building, fitly framed together, grow unto an holy temple in the Lord."

Send them, this day, with their companions numerous and true, as favorable angels, to soften the distress of thy poor; to reach some clothing to the shivering naked; to deal their bread to the hungry; to comfort the destitute, the languishing, and the sorrowful; to save from perishing!

As long as there is one afflicted traveler in the world's wilderness, let there not be wanting many of these good Samaritans!

And now while we thank thee, O liberal Bestower of favors! that the voice of gladness and health is restored to so many of our dwellings, we ask these further gifts to crown our happiness. The tenderest feeling of our neighbor's woe; the grace and generosity to share in others' sorrows, as well as joys; the will and the ability to show we love as brethren!

That, as shrines in some venerable sanctuary, every association among them may be holiness unto the Lord: that these states may prosper, and all the people praise thee—be pleased, thou Lover of Concord! to continue our National Confederacy: May its glory still appear: and the goodly fellowship pass along with increasing character of Millions yet unborn.

May all that can make great and free, and happy, distinguish the land we live in! Let it be blessed of the Most High, for the precious things of the earth, and fulness thereof! Let our men be few, nor unacceptible to their brethren! May our sons grow up as the young plants, and our daughters be as the polished corners of the Temple!—

May the lamp of Science burn clear in these climes of freedom; and our Golden Candlesticks never be removed! May wisdom competent to every exigence, and fortitude superior to danger. May incorruptible fidelity and care to execute the trust committed to them inspire our Civil Rulers, and all the Representatives of the people—

Finally—That we may remain the objects of thy loving kindness —a People whom the Lord Jehovah will defend and prosper; and whose posterity he will be in the midst of forever. May pure

Religion and such unblemished manners as will shed a dignity on our Christian calling, prevail among us!—

And may the glory of the latter House be greater than the former; and in this place may the Lord of Hosts give harmony and peace.—As long as the Sun and Moon shall endure, through our only mediator and advocate Christ Jesus—

Monday, February 2, 1795.—The Committee met

according to adjournment.—Present: Bro^r David Erwing, J. W.; Praise Wadman, Treasurer; John Service. The members present thought it not prudent to go into business and therefore adjourned until Wednesday the 4th inst. at 6 o'Clock P. M. and Notice is to be sent to the absentees.

Wednesday, February 4, 1795.—The Committee met according to adjournment. Present: Bro^rs. Rudman Robeson, S. W.; David Erwing, J. W.; Praise Wadman, Treasurer. They not being sufficient to do business, and being so often disappointed; thought proper to dissolve, and are now ready to make Report.

N. B.—The Committee offered Five Dollars to Brother Achmet Ben Ali, in pursuance to the Order of the Lodge which Sum was refused by him, as being to inconsiderable.

Part of the Standing Committee of Lodge No 2 beg leave to Report, that after having several different Meetings, they have not been able to do the material part of the business entrusted to them, owing to the absence of the Worshipful Master and Secretary. They therefore only suggest to the Lodge, that as the business is of the highest importance to the Welfare, and even to the existence of the Lodge, it is essentially necessary that some speedy and effectual mode should be adopted by which the settlement of that business might be completed.

St. John the Baptist's Day, June 24, 1795, was celebrated, with a procession, a religious service at old St. Peter's Church, Third and Pine Streets, with a sermon by Rev. Dr. William Smith. This was the last Masonic sermon preached by that venerable theologian and Freemason.

After the return to the Hall at the conclusion of the service the following resolution was adopted:

On motion and seconded, Resolved, That the Committee of Arrangements be requested to wait on Bro. Dr. Smith with the thanks of this Lodge for the discourse by him delivered on this day, and request the favor of a copy of the same for publication, and that one thousand copies thereof be printed at the expense of the Grand Lodge.

There is no record, however, that this resolution was ever carried into effect. The sermon is included in the works of Wm. Smith, D.D., Vol. II., p. 73, published in Philadelphia, 1803, a copy of which is in the Grand Lodge Library.

The following advertisement and account of the Celebration of St. John the Evangelist's Day appeared in Poulson's American Daily Advertiser, June 24, 1795:

GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA, ST. JOHN'S DAY.

At the Grand Quarterly Communication held December 5, 1796, the following resolution was adopted:

On motion and seconded, that a Committee be appointed to frame an address to be presented on the ensuing Feast of St. John, Dec. 27th, to the Great Master Workman, our Ill[s] Bro. Washington, on the occasion of his intended retirement from public labor, to be also laid before the said Grand Lodge on St. John's day, and the R. W. Grand Master, Deputy G. M., Bros. Sadler, Milnor, and Williams were accordingly appointed.

In pursuance of above resolution at the Grand Lodge held on St. John's Day, December 27, 1796:

The Committee appointed to prepare an address to our Bro. Geo. Washington, President of the United States, presented an address by them drawn up, which was ordered to be read, and in the words following, to wit:

To Geo. Washington, President of the United States,
The Address of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania:

Most Respected Sir and Brother: "Having announced your intention to retire from Public Labor to that Refreshment to which your pre-eminent services for near half a century have so justly entitled you; Permit the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania at this last Feast of our Evangelic Master St. John, on which we can hope for an immediate Communication with you, to join the grateful voice of our Country in acknowledging that you have carried forth the principles of the Lodge into every walk of your life by your constant labors for the prosperity of that Country, by your unremitting endeavors to promote Order, Union and Brotherly Affection amongst us, and lastly by the vows of your farewell address to your brethren and fellow Citizens: an address which we trust our children and our children's children will ever look upon as a most invaluable legacy from a Friend, a Benefactor and a Father.

"To these our grateful acknowledgments (leaving to the impartial pen of History to record the important events in which you have borne so illustrious a part) permit us to add our most fervent prayers, that after enjoying to the utmost span of Human Life every felicity which the Terrestrial Lodge can afford, you may be received by the Great Master Builder of this World and of Worlds unnumbered into the ample felicity of that Celestial Lodge, in which alone distinguished virtues and distinguished labors can be eternally rewarded."

It was then moved and seconded that the same be adopted. Upon the question being taken it appeared that it was approved. On motion made and seconded, it was agreed that a Committee be appointed to wait on Bro. Washington to acquaint him that it is the intention of this Gr^d^ Lodge to present an address to him, and to know what time he shall be pleased to appoint to receive it.

The Committee appointed to perfom this duty were Bros. William Smith, Peter Le Barbier Du Plessis, and Thomas Proctor, who, after having waited on him, reported that he had appointed to-morrow 12 o'clock to receive it. Said Committee, to wit: Bros. W. Smith, Du Plessis, and Proctor, together with the R. W. D. G. M., Senior and Junior Wardens, Grand Secretary, and the Masters of the different Lodges in the city, were then appointed a deputation to present the said address.

At the adjourned Lodge, held on January 2, 1797, the following report was made, viz.:

The Deputation appointed on St. John's Day to present the address on that day agreed to, to our Bro. Geo. Washington, reported that they had waited on him and presented him the said address, and that he had returned them an answer, which is in the words following:

FELLOW-CITIZENS AND BROTHERS OF THE GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA: "I have received your address with all the feelings of Brotherly affection mingled with those sentiments for the Society which it was calculated to excite. To have been, in any degree, an instrument in the hands of Providence to promote Order and Union, and erect upon a solid foundation the true principles of Government, is only to have shared with many others in a labor, the result of which, let us hope, will prove through all ages a sanctuary for Brothers, and a Lodge for the virtues.

"Permit me to reciprocate your prayers for my temporal happiness, and to supplicate that we may all meet thereafter in that Eternal Temple whose builder is the Great Architect of the Universe."

The original address, read to President Washington, as well as his reply, is in the Museum of the Grand Lodge Library in Philadelphia.

For some reason the Society of Free Quakers refused to renew the lease of their meeting house at the southwest corner of Fifth and Arch Streets to the Masonic Fraternity. At the Quarterly Communication held June 3, 1799:

Bro Milnor, of the committee appointed to inquire what place may be obtained for the future meetings of this Grand Lodge after their present lease expires, reported that the room wherein this G. L. now meet cannot be had after the expiration of the said lease. Whereupon, on motion made and seconded, agreed that the Grand Secretary write to all the Lodges under this jurisdiction requesting them to communicate as expeditiously as possible what sums of money they will respectively contribute towards the purchase or erecting a building for the accommodation of this Grand Lodge and the Subordinate Lodges in this City.

Owing to a re-occurrence of an epidemic of yellow fever during the summer it was not until November 13 1799 that a report of this Committee was made at an Extra Communication called for this purpose.

The R. W. Grand Master presented a copy of a petition from the R. W. Grand Officers and the Committee appointed to procure a place for the future meetings of this R. W. Grand Lodge and the Subordinate Lodges in this city, to his Excellency, Thomas Mifflin, Esq., Governor of this Commonwealth, praying that his Excellency would be pleased to grant permission for holding our future meetings in some of the rooms of the State House, which was read, and is in the words following:

To His Excellency, Thomas Mifflin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania: The petition of the subscribers, present officers of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, respectfully sheweth that the Grand Lodge has for several years past occupied a room illy adapted for the purposes of their meetings, which they had taken in expectation only that by this time they would have been able to procure for themselves permanent accommodations, but owing to their extraordinary charitable exertions, which have been rendered peculiarly burdensome by the frequent visitations which have afflicted the city, they have found themselves unable to effect so desirable an object. That their lease is expired, and the room wanted by the proprietors for other uses. Your petitioners understanding that the rooms in the State House are at present unoccupied and are likely to remain so for a considerable time, are induced to request the Gr^d^. Lodge may be indulged with the use of the Senate Chamber or such other apartments on the same floor as your Excellency may see fit; and the Grand Lodge will hold themselves pledged, and do engage, at any time whenever they shall be so required, to evacuate and redeliver the premises unimpaired in the same order in which they shall receive them.

(Signed), J. B. Smith, G. M.
Israel Israel, D. G. M.
James Milnor, S. G. W.
Charles Patton, J. G. W.
John Smith,
Chairman of Committee for procuring Rooms, etc.

Nov. 4, 1799.

The R. W. G. M. then informed this Grand Lodge that said petition had been presented to His Excellency the Governor, who had been pleased to grant the Secretaries' Chamber in the State House for that purpose until called for. On motion made and seconded, this Grand Lodge concur in the application so made to His Excellency the Governor, and return their warmest thanks to His Excellency for the grant he has been pleased to make them, and direct that Bro. Grand Secretary respectfully communicate the same to His Excellency the Governor.

On motion made and seconded, the D. G. M. Israel Israel and Bro. John Smith, Jr., Coyle, Griffiths, and Andrew Nilson, were appointed a committee to prepare the rooms in the State House for the accommodation of this Grand Lodge, and to remove all the furniture now in this room there when ready, and to have such repairs done to the old and procure such new furniture as shall appear to be necessary.

On motion made and seconded, the said committee were authorized to leave this room in the order we receive the same, or in such state as they shall agree on with the owners of this building.

The close of the eighteenth century was an apprehensive one for the City of Philadelphia, as it ceased at the same time to be the capital of both the United States and the State of Pennsylvania. One of the chief arguments made was that of late "a disease called the yellow fever had raged at particular periods, so as to render it dangerous for the members of the Legislatures to meet."

Then again it was during the night of the seventeenth of December, when the news was received of the death of General Washington at Mount Vernon three days before.

Congress assembled upon the following morning, and ordered an official memorial service to be held on Thursday, December 26, 1799, in Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church at the southeast corner of Fourth and Cherry Streets, in which the Masonic Fraternity was invited to take a prominent position in the Solemn Service.

The time being short, written special notices were were sent out to the members of the Grand Lodge by the Grand Secretary, George A. Baker, one of which has come down to us and is reproduced in facsimile.

FACSIMILE OF GRAND LODGE NOTICE OF DEATH OF WASHINGTON.

Honour of the late Lieutenant General George Washington, as directed by Order of Congress, the R. W. Grand Master opened the business of the meeting in an address to the Grand Lodge.

In conclusion of which he stated: "I detain you no longer. The government of our country has this day honourably distinguished us as among the chief morners of Washington—its Friend, its Protector, and its Ornament. The destined hour has come and we move to the summons."[4]

Whereupon, it was unanimously Resolved, That this Grand Lodge are deeply and sincerely afflicted with the Melancholy event which has accasioned this Communication, and will immediately proceed to join in the Honours about to be shewn to the Memory of our Illustrious deceased Brother.

Also, That this Grand Lodge will bear any Expenses which shall be incurred on this occasion.

The R. W. Grand Master then appointed Bro^r. Proctor, Master of Ceremonies for the day. Grand Lodge was closed.

The Brethren then formed in due Order in the Grand Lodge Room, and moving from thence joined in the general procession, which formed in the middle of Chestnut Street, right on Sixth. The route was down Fifth to Walnut Street, down Walnut to Fourth and up Fourth to Zion German Lutheran Church. A bier covered with a pall was carried in the procession by six sergeants and was deposited in front of the altar beneath the pulpit. An Anthem, Monody and dirge composed for the occasion was sung by a choir, the leading voices in which were artists from the Theatre in Chestnut Street, the original music of which is now in the Library of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. The funeral service was pronounced by the Rt. Rev. Bishop White, after which Gen. Henry Lee, of Virginia, delivered the address in accordance with the resolution of Congress, wherein Bro. Washington was characterized as being "First in war, first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," which being ended the Masonic Procession returned to the Grand Lodge room.

The following Monody was composed for and sung at the official funeral service, held at the German Lutheran Zion Church. It was dedicated to the Senate of the United States. A copy of the original music is preserved in the Grand Lodge Library.

CHAPTER XIX.

Independence Hall, 1800–1802.

AT the beginning of the new century Philadelphia was once again a comparatively quiet city. The glamor of being the Capital City of the United States and State of Pennsylvania had passed. It is however true that it was still the commercial metropolis of the country, and boasted of the largest population of any city on the Atlantic Seaboard.

Masonically the horizon seemed bright and clear upon every point except as to a permanent meeting place for the Grand and Subordinate Lodges. The occupation of Independence Hall was at the best only a temporary one, subject to the orders of the civil authorities. In view of these conditions strenuous efforts were made by the Grand Lodge looking toward a permanent home. The lot at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Walnut Streets being deemed too far out of town a building on the south side of Filbert Street above Eighth Street was purchased, soon to be abandoned for the Gothic Hall built on Chestnut Street, north side, between Seventh and Eighth Street. How this was later destroyed by fire, and what followed will be fully told in the following chapters.

At the very beginning of the new century a solemn Masonic celebration took place in memory of our departed brother Washington.

This was an open Lodge of Sorrow in memory of our late Brother General Washington, held on Wednesday, January 1, by the French Lodge L'Amenite, No. 73, at their Lodge room in Abraham Taylor's Alley, a small thoroughfare between Second and Front Streets, south of Chesnut, now called Ionic Street.

Following is a contemporary account of the celebration:

On Wednesday last [January 1, 1800], the French Lodge le Amenite, No. 73 of the Pennsylvania jurisdiction, exhibited a truly interesting evidence of their veneration for the character of General Washington, which is not confined to country or language. Having decreed that an oration should be delivered on the occasion of his death, the whole Lodge assembled. The room was covered with sable hangings, in a manner dignified as the occasion, truly masonic in its forms and its effects, not to be described. In the center was a superb Bier, raised about ten feet, on a platform of five steps, with the masonic and military bearings of the deceased, elegantly illuminated and supporting a number of urns; over this, from the ceiling, were suspended sable festoons, with appropriate emblems and decorations. The number of lights, we understand, were about 300.

Brother Joseph de la Grange, the master of the Lodge, and officers having taken their seats, the grand officers and the ladies of the brethren, who had been invited, were conducted to their places.—The members of the Lodge, and visiting brethren, then took their seats. The room was crowded, but without confusion. A solemn silence of some minutes evinced the effect of the scene, and the feelings of the heart. At length the W. Master announced from the East that the illustrious Brother Washington is dead!—the South and West responded the illustrious Brother Washington is dead! The attention of the company was invited to an eulogium of affection & veneration to his memory. Brother J. Chaudron, orator of the Lodge, then addressed from the heart of the speaker to the hearts of the hearers, animated, enlightened, and dignified reflections, on the character and conduct of General Washington, and their happy effects. The audience were affected, and the speaker being interrupted by their and his own tears, was impressed with the magnitude of the subject.

The W. Master then, in a respectful and emphatic address to the Grand Master and other Grand Officers, and American visitors, stated that though to the United States belonged the peculiar honor of having produced and enjoyed the more immediate advantages of this great character; yet, that Washington had been born for the benefit of mankind, and that other nations felt a lively interest in paying a tribute to his name. The master concluded with an interesting and polite address to the Ladies present, and the business of the day was declared to be finished.

The Lodge room was opened during the afternoon, for the admission of strangers; and, at the solicitation of many respectable persons, it was again opened for the admission of genteel characters on Saturday, the 4th inst. from 10 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The above oration and addresses were printed in both French and English, copies of which were sent to Mrs. Washington, the President and Vice-President, Governor of the State and Foreign Ambassadors, acknowledgments from whom are on file in the Library of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, as well as of the various editions of 1800 and 1811.

The above unique Memorial Service of Lodge 73—the first of its kind in America of which we have any record—was followed by the Masonic memorial service under the auspices of the Grand Lodge on February 22, 1800, as requested by Congress. The Library of the Grand Lodge is fortunate in having in its collection one of the original notices sent out to the members, as well as an "Order of Procession." Facsimiles of both are here reproduced.

At an extra Grand Communication, held Monday, February 3, 1800:

The R. W. Deputy Grand Master informed the Brethren that the present Communication was held for the purpose laying before the Brethren a certain request in writing from several of the Masters of Lodges held in this City, which being presented, was read, and is in the words following:

"We, the Subscribers, Masters of Lodges held in the City of Philadelphia, under the Authority of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, beg leave to request that the R. W. TITLE PAGE OF BRO. SAMUEL MAGAW'S ORATION.

The Front of the Procession having reached the Church, the Brethren opened their Ranks and faced inwards; the Grand Lodge, with the Urn in Front, moved forward through the Ranks, the Brethren closed from the Rear and followed the Grand Lodge into the Church, where a Pathetic and Elegant Oration was delivered by the Reverend Doct^r. Magaw. In the intervals of service solemn Funeral Odes in the German Language, composed for the Occasion by the Reverend Doct^r. Helmuth, and set to music by Messrs. Emrich and Weizaecker, were sung by the Singing Society of the aforesaid Congregation, accompanied by a full Orchestra, under the direction of Messrs Emrich and Weizaecker.

The business of the Day being finished the Procession, with the Urn in Front, returned in inverse Order to the Grand Lodge Room.

The whole was arranged and conducted with that Order, simplicity and dignity, which was suitable to the impressive occasion, and which the Masons of Pennsylvania have always endeavored to cultivate.

Several Brethren from the Neigboring Lodges came to the City to attend the Procession, and many others were detained from coming as they were engaged in rendering similar tokens of regard in their respective Lodges

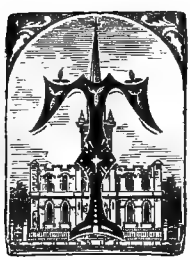
CHAPTER XX.

The Pennsylvania Freemason's Hall, 1803–1811.



THE question has frequently been asked when and why the Grand Lodge vacated the rooms in the State House or Independence Hall, as neither date nor particulars appear in the minutes. The finding of a letter in our Archives from R. W. D. G. M. Milnor to Grand Secretary George A. Baker dated April 3, 1802, gives us the first clue to the circumstances. It appears from official records that early in the year 1802 the Legislature granted to Charles Wilson Peale the use of the State House for a museum, who at once took possession and made several changes, such as building a room over the main stairway in the main hall and placing a large sign over the main door containing the word "MUSEUM." Peale also took up his dwelling in the hall. This and other matters made things unpleasant for the brethren. Then again Peale objected to the length of the meetings, and sent a complaint to the R. W. G. M. J. B. Smith, who being ill referred the matter to the R. W. Deupty James Milnor, who sent the following letter to the Grand Secretary for action:

Dear Sir & Brother

The R. W. G. M being too much indesposed to attend to business I have been called on by Mr Peale to whose care the statehouse has been Confided. He Complains that the sittings of the Lodges are continued to so late an hour as to occasion him great inconvenience

Will you be good enough to cause it to be intimated to the Masters of Lodges that it is very desirable for the short time we shall be permitted to occupy our present place of meeting that they should close their sittings at as early an hour as possible. I flatter myself a mere hint on the subject will remove every cause of Complaint

Your faithful Br.

JAMES MILNOR

Br. G. A. BAKER R. W. G. S.

In the meantime the friction between Peale and the brethren increased, and it appears that the brethren were summarily ordered to vacate, by the authorities. This left the brethren without a suitable meeting place, notwithstanding the efforts of the Grand Lodge to secure a building of their own. In this dilemma Brother William Francis came to the aid of the brethren and offered them the use of his large room on the west side of Eighth Street—no. 70 (old number) —between Arch and Race Streets. This kind offer was accepted and the Grand and subordinate Lodges met there until the building on Filbert Street above Eighth Street purchased by the Grand Lodge was finished and ready for occupany.

Brother William Francis was a comedian and had a dancing academy at above address. It was in this hall or room where the Lodge meetings were held during this interim. He was the same person who in April, 1800, borrowed the jewels and aprons of several Lodges to use in the "Performance of a Theatrical Representation for his Benefit," for which the Grand Lodge censured the masters of the aforesaid Lodges.[1]

How the action of Brother Francis was appreciated by the brethren is shown by the following resolution of the Grand Lodge at the Grand Quarterly Communication, December 6, A. L. 5802, when—

On Motion made and Seconded, Resolved Unanimously, That the Thanks of this Grand Lodge be given to Brother William Francis, for his kind attention to the welfare of our Institution, by granting leave to his Grand Lodge and the Subordinate Lodges to meet in this Room at a Time when they were all destitute of a place of Meeting.

Resolved Unanimously, That Bro^r. Grand Secretary present to Brother Francis a Copy of the above Resolution.

This was followed at the Adjourned Communication, December 13, A. L. 5802, by a resolution by Bro. Lewis:

[1] Reprint of the Minutes, Vol. I., pp. 408–409.

In consequence of Bro^r. William Francis's Fraternal affection to the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania and Subordinate Lodges under their Jurisdiction in providing them a Temple to work in during the building of their permanent Hall, Resolved, That the R. W. Grand Master be requested to cause Bro^r Francis to be passed to the Chair, and that a suitable Jewel and Apron be presented to him in Addition to the Vote of Thanks already presented to him. The Consideration of which Resolution was postponed.

At the next Adjourned Communication, January 3, A. L. 5803, we find:

The Resolution offered the 13th Ultimo, respecting Bro^r. William Francis's being passed to the Chair and a Past Master's Jewel and Apron being presented him was taken into Consideration and Adopted and Bro^rs. Ferguson, Pullen and Griffith were appointed a Committee to carry so much of the said Resolution as respects the Jewel and Apron into effect.

As the new building in Filbert Street approached completion it was resolved at the Extra Grand Communication held November 15, 1802:

That the Building in Filbert Street purchased and prepared for the use of this Grand Lodge be called and known by the Name of

"THE PENNSYLVANIA FREE MASON'S HALL."

It was also resolved that the hall should be dedicated with the ancient ceremonial, and a procession of the brethren. A full account of this interesting occasion, in which Lodge No. 2 was a prominent factor, has been preserved in the archives of the Grand Lodge, from which following extracts are made:

Agreeably to the Resolution of the Grand Lodge of the 6th Instant and to the Arrangement made by the Committee appointed for that purpose, the Brethren assembled at the Church of the Universalists[2] in Lombard Street, between [2] The question has frequently occurred, why it was that the Masonic Fraternity upon that festive occasion assembled and started from the Universalist Church, on the south side of Lombard Street, between Fourth and Fifth Street, then unfinished on the inside, being without plaster on the walls or galleries. From documents in the compiler's possession it appears that Israel Israel, John Vannest and other prominent members of the Grand Lodge had become members of the New Society, and the Pastor, Rev. George Richards (see below), was Grand Chaplain, who became an enthusiastic Mason and later edited the Freemason's Magazine, published in Philadelpia by Levis and Weaver, copies of which are in the Grand Lodge Library. There is still another interesting matter wherein the Universalists are identified with the Masonic history of our Grand Lodge. When the old Freemasons' Lodge on Lodge Alley was sold by the Sheriff as related in chapter XV, the Grand Lodge was outbid and the property was sold for $4,000 to two members of the newly formed religious body called Universal Baptists (Universalists), who, on January 16, 1786, united in a deed of trust, in which they declared that they held the property for the sole use of the above society. Henceforth the old Lodge House in a single decade passed successively from (Modern) Lodge House to Quaker prison, army hospital, hall of Grand Lodge (Ancients) and lastly it became the first church of the Universalist Society. Here preached the two Winchesters—"Hell fire" and Moses—Rev. John Murray, the celebrated Dr. Priestly and others. Mrs. Mary Ellet, a daughter of Israel Israel, who was an active member of this religious movement, describes the interior which had been the meeting room of the Provincial Grand Lodge, the Brethren upon vacating the Lodge having removed all furnishings:

"It was a rough unsightly structure, the room large and unfinished, the only furniture was common wooden benches, on each side of the aisle leading to the primitive pulpit, an unsightly box, surrounded with benches, on which sat the elders of the church. Later

Fourth and Fifth Streets, at Nine o'clock in the Morning and proceeded from thence at Half past Eleven o'clock in the following Order, (to wit)

the old lodge house was purchased by the Pennsylvania Bank, who used it as a banking house until the new marble bank on second Street was finished, when the old Lodge House of 1755 was razed, and the lot became part of the park in the rear of the bank.—Mrs. Ellet's "Recollections."

The following interesting personal description was found among the manuscripts in the Historical Society:

"George Richards.—The Reverend Gentleman was short in stature, of a square build, and a somewhat bulky person, with a dark coarse skin, short black hair, and decidedly florid complexion. The cerebral portion of his head was well developed—his forehead, broad and high—had a perpendicular aspect. His movements were slow and deliberate. His countenance, when in repose, had a pensive, absorbed rather melancholy expression, but it soon became lighted up, and full of animation, when he engaged in conversation, especially on subjects in which he was much interested—religion, politics, and masonry—in which latter he took a very deep interest—holding the Office of G. Chaplain and Lecturer, under the appointment of G. M. James Milnor, of the G. Lodge, A. Y. M. of Pennsylvania—then a distinguished member of the Philadelphia Bar, and subsequently a clergyman of the Protestant Church (Episcopal), having up to his death the pastorage of the leading Episcopal Church of New York. Great intimacy and reciprocal esteem existed between the latter gentleman and Mr. Richards.

"Mr. R. was very near sighted but wore no glasses. His sermons were always carefully written out in full, and then committed to memory—thus he was enabled to deliver them without any reference to the manuscript—thus giving to them all the force and elegance of extemporaneous productions.

"Mr. R. was a profound classical scholar, while he was intimately conversant with standard English Literature.

"He was of an essentially poetic temperament; and hence felt an especial fondness for the ancient Hebrew poems, which constitute so large a portion of the contents of the 'Old Testament.' The real grandeur of these he was better prepared to apreciate from being able to read them in the original, using the pronunciation current among the best German Hebriasts."

When the Procession reached the Building the Brethren halted, opened their ranks and the R. W. Grand Master attended by the R. W. Bro^r^. Beatty, Grand Master of New Jersey and followed by the Grand Officers and a very considerable Number of Brethren were received in the outer Apartment under a display of Music. On the Grand Master reaching Solomon's Chair the present Grand Officers took their Seats and the Elect and Past Grand Officers, the Reverend Brethren, Members of the Hall Committee and other Brethren repaired to the seats prepared for them. The Grand Master being proclaimed, the Music performed a Grand piece till all the Members were seated. The Lodge was then placed in the Centre of the Hall and the Three Lights with the Three Silver Pitchers containing Corn, Wine and Oil were placed thereon. The Bible, Square, Compasses and Book of Constitutions on a Crimson Velvet Cushion being placed on the Pedestal an Anthem was sung. The Grand Master Ordered the Lodge to be Tyled.

The following Lodges were represented, Viz:

N°. 2, Joseph Burden, M^r.,[3] Thomas Tatem, S. W.; 3, 9, 14, 19, 21, 41, 45, 46, 47, 50, 51, 52, 59, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 76, 77, 87, 91, being Twenty Four Lodges.

The Lodge was then uncovered and Grand Lodge opened in Ample Form, when the Grand Master having mentioned to the Brethren that he was informed the Venerable and Reverend Bro^r. William Smith, D.D., Past Grand Chaplain and Past Grand Secretary, had composed a Prayer appropriate to the Day the said Brother Smith with the Concurrence of the Rev^d. Brother John Andrews, D.D., Grand Chaplain, delivered his prayer to the general satisfaction of the Brethren.

The Grand Secretary intimated the Architect's desire to return the implements entrusted to his Care. Whereupon, Brother Jackson, the Architect, addressed the Grand Master who expressed his high satisfaction at the completion of the Hall and commanded the Grand Wardens to receive back the implements which was complyed with and they were laid on the Lodge.

The Grand Secretary then informed the Grand Master that it was the desire of the Society to have the Hall dedicated to Masonry, on which the Grand Master commanded his Officers to Assist in that pleasing Ceremony, the Music mean while playing. The Grand Officers then walked round the Lodge

[3] Joseph Burden, a cabinet and chair maker, became a Mason August 10, 1795. He was W. M. 1803, J. G. W. 1809–1810–1811, S. G. W. 1812 and 1813, Treasurer 1809 to 1825, and Member of Lodge No. 2 for forty-five years when he died, May, 1840. His son, Dr. Jesse R. Burden, was made a Master Mason, March, 1820. He was a well-known physician and for some years a member of the Legislature. A grandson, Jesse R. Burden, Jr., was made a Master Mason in March, 1864.

Three different Times stopping each Time for the Ceremony of dedication. At the end of the First Procession, the Music being silent, the Grand Master strewing Corn over the Lodge declared in solemn form the Hall dedicated to Masonry, which being proclaimed by the Grand Secretary the Grand Honours were given. At the end of the Second Procession, the Music being silent, the Grand Master pouring Wine over the Lodge declared in solemn form the Hall dedicated to Virtue and Science, which being proclaimed by the Grand Secretary the Grand Honours were given as before. At the end of the Third Procession, the Music being silent, the Grand Master pouring Oil on the Lodge in solemn form declared the Hall dedicated to Universal Charity and Benevolence which being proclaimed by the Grand Secretary the Grand Honours were given as before. A Grand Anthem adopted to the occasion set to Music by Bro^r^. Reinagle was sung by Bro^rs^. Reinagle, Wood and Fox, and

The Grand Master returned to Solomon's Chair under the acclamations of the Brethren and the Music performing "When Earths Foundation first was laid, &^c^."

The Grand Master was then pleased to deliver an Affectionate Address which was received by the Brethren with the most lively tokens of Gratitude and Acknowledgement and their Approbation was testified in the usual Form.

The Ceremony of Dedication being compleated, so much of the Minutes of the 6th Instant as relates to the Election of Grand Officers was read. Whereupon, the Grand Master Ordered Bro^r^. Peter Le Barbier Duplessis, Past Grand Secretary, a very Ancient and expert Mason, to proceed to the Installation of the Grand Officers elect, and accordingly

The R. W. Bro^r^. Israel Israel, Esqr., was installed Grand Master, invested, proclaimed and saluted according to Ancient Form.

The R. W. Bro^r. Ebenezer Ferguson, Esqr., S. G. W.

The R. W. Bro^r George Adam Baker, Esqr., Grand Secretary.

The Junior Grand Warden and Grand Treasurer elect not attending, their installation was postponed till the next Communication.

On Motion made and Seconded, Resolved Unanimously, that the Thanks of this Grand Lodge be given to the R. W. Bro^r. Jonathan Bayard Smith, Esqr., late Grand Master for his affectionate, instructing and Brotherly address and that it is their desire he would be pleased to deliver a Copy of the same to be entered on the Minutes for the instruction of the Brethren. His Worship was pleased to promise the requested Copy.

Resolved, that the Thanks of this Grand Lodge be given to the Venerable and Reverend Bro^r. William Smith, D.D., for his appropriate prayer, also to the Reverend Brethren of the Clergy who have assisted in the Duties of the Day, and to Bro^r. Reinagle, Wood and Fox who assisted so essentially in the service of the Day as well as to the Members of the Hall Committee for their great Assiduity and Zeal in the business committed to their care.

The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania impressed with a grateful sense of the long assiduous and highly useful labours of their late R. W. Grand Master, Bro^r Jonathan Bayard Smith, Esqr., previous to and during his service in the high Station which he has left.

Resolved Unanimously, That as a further Testimony of the Affection, regard and Veneration of this Grand Lodge for Our said Brother Jonathan Bayard Smith, Esquire, he be presented with a Past Grand Masters Jewell of Gold.

GEORGE A. BAKER,
Grand Secretary.

On Sunday, March 16, 1806, there passed to the Grand Lodge above Brother Thomas Proctor, who had been one of the most active and honored Brethren in this Jurisdiction. For many years he was one of the most prominent members of Lodge No. 2, as appears from our minutes, as well as in the Military Lodge attached to his regiment of artillery during the Revolutionary War, also of the Grand Lodge and the Lodge warranted at Philadelphia in 1787 under the number of the old regimental Lodge No. 19.

Colonel Proctor resigned from the army April 9, 1781. The acceptance of his resignation was accompanied by a personal letter of regret from Washington.[4]

During the next twenty-five years of his life Colonel Proctor was an active public servant as well as Freemason. The closing years of his life were harassed with financial and legal troubles, owing to his stubborn temper.

He died at his home in Arch Street, No. —, between Fourth and Fifth, and was buried at three o'clock on the following Tuesday afternoon, with military and Masonic honors, in the ground surrounding St. Paul's P. E. Church, Third Street below Walnut.

[5] Norris Stanley was born November 10, 1765. In early life he followed the sea and was Captain of clipper ships trading principally to Liverpool with occasional trips to the West Indies. He subsequently owned vessels himself and became a well-known merchant of Philadelphia and an associate of Stephen Girard, William Cummings, Commodore Bainbridge, Israel Israel, Mayor Wharton, Commodore Thomas Barry, Captain Thomas Hayes of John Moss's ship "Tontine," Captain Patrick Hayes and many other well-known Philadelphians. He took a great interest in Masonry and Lodge No. 2, but did not care to become Master although he was Junior Warden, December 11, 1809, and Senior Master of Ceremonies, December 18, 1816. He had many strong positive qualities and interesting stories are related of him. He was wealthy for his times and generous to the poor and distressed, especially Masons. For over twenty years it was his custom to ascertain from the Committee on Charity who were in need and what the Lodge had given. He would then himself call on the beneficiary and give a like amount, saying: "You must not mention this. If you do I will never give you a d— cent again." He told Wm. Cummings, Master of Lodge No. 2, in 1837, 1838 and 1839: "Billy, I am getting old, and as Master if you know of members of No. 2 and their families in want come to me and I will contribute, but I don't want you to tell"; which promise he kept literally. He died in his eighty-sixth year at his residence, No. 9 Pine Street above Front Street, in 1851, and was buried in his vault in St. Paul's P. E. Church yard. He had been a member of St. Paul's Vestry for many years. By his will registered in Will Book 27, p. 1, at Philadelphia, he appointed his friends, William Cummings and Horace Binney, Jr., executors. He remembered in a substantial way many charities.

An address of James Milnor, Esquire, R. W. G. M. and delivered by him in Grand Lodge on St. John's

IN GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA,

Adjourned Grand Quarterly Communication,

Philadelphia, Monday, 2d April, A. D. 1810.

"THE Committee appointed on the 5th ultimo, on the subject of "illegal Masonic Meetings, made Report, and offered two Resolu- "tions, which were amended and adopted, as follows, to wit:

"The Committee appointed on the 5th ultimo, agreeably to a Resolution "of the Grand Lodge, relative to illegal Masonic Meetings—

"BEG LEAVE TO REPORT....

"THAT they have enquired into the premises and find, "that a person of the name of Henry Snyder has, for a considerable "time past, been in the practice of holding Masonic Meetings at the "Black Horse Tavern, near the first turnpike gate on the Frankford "road, on Sunday afternoons, and at the tavern of a certain ..... "Doyle, in High near Water street, on Thursday evenings; at which "places a number of Free Masons have attended, and at which meet- "ings the said Snyder is in the habit of acting as W. Master, and "that Lodges have been opened and Lectures on the Masonic De- "grees given by him....That after such Lectures have been given, "they proceeded to collect dues to defray the expences for Liquor, "and to compensate said Snyder for his services.

"Your Committee would further Report, that they have received "information of similar Masonic Meetings being held by other per- "sons in different parts of the City, and your Committee conceiving "that such illegal and unauthorized meetings, if permitted, will have "a tendency to injure young Masons, and be detrimental to the "craft: and it being a gross deviation from ancient land marks, to "prevent which, they beg leave to offer the following Resolutions:

"Resolved, That the Grand Secretary be requested to inform "brother Snyder, that all such meetings are illegal, and should he or "any other brother persist in such conduct in future, he and they "will be dealt with by the Grand Lodge agreeably to the ancient "customs and usages of Masonry.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the master of each Lodge "to warn his brethren from attending such meetings under the "penalty of being expelled."

Extract from the Minutes.

GEORGE A. BAKER,
Grand Secretary.

Day 24th of June 5809 and a Circular address by him to the Different Lodges in the City of Philadelphia at the Grand Visitation in the months of Feby., March & April A. L. 5809.

April 22, 1810.—Adjourned Lodge. Present 17 members & 4 visitors

Br Reisch presented a petition to the Lodge, stating that he had been aggrieved in Consequence of Certain reports being spread by a Member of this Lodge prejudicial to his Character, and praying that the Lodge would appoint a Committee to enquire into the subject, the Petition being Drawn informal on Motion leave was Granted him to withdraw it.

On Wednesday, May 30, the venerable patriarch in Freemasonry, R. W. Past Grand Master William Ball, departed this life and entered the Grand Celestial Lodge above.

His Masonic career extended over sixty years of his eventful life. Originally made a Mason in Lodge No. 2 of the Moderns in 1750, he affiliated with Lodge No. 2 Ancients ten years later and became the first Grand Master of this Grand Lodge, a position which he filled with honor to himself and the craft for twenty years. At the request of the family, his remains were interred on the following day, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, in the burial ground of the First Baptist Church then in Fromberger's Court (La Grange place) west of Second Street below Arch Streets. He was buried in "Masonic form by the Grand Lodge" and the subordinate Lodges.

The order of said procession was as follows: The Fraternity assembled at the Filbert Street Hall at eight o'clock in the morning of Thursday, May 31, and proceeded from thence, by Lodges according to juniority, in procession to the house of the deceased on Market Street (No. 41), north side between Front and Second Streets, and from thence preceding the corpse, to the graveyard in the following order, viz:

Lodge N°. 115.
Master of Ceremonies with drawn Sword.
Enter'd Apprentices 2 and 2.
Fellow Crafts 2 and 2.
Master Masons 2 and 2.
Deacons with their Wands.
Secretary with his Scroll, and Treasurer.
Wardens of the Lodge.
Past Masters 2 and 2.
Master of the Lodge.
Lodges No. 114, 91, 73, 72, 71, 67, 59, 52, 51, 19, 9, 3, 2 in the same Order.

Band of Music.

The Grand Lodge then followed in the following Order, to wit:
Grand Tyler with drawn Sword.
Twelve Past Masters 2 and 2 bearing White Wands.
Grand Sword Bearer with drawn Sword.
Past Grand Officers.
Grand Secretary with his Scroll, and Grand Treasurer.
Grand Wardens bearing their Columns.

Three Lights, extinguished, borne by 3 Past Masters.

Holy Bible, Square and Compass, borne by a Past Master and supported by 2 Past Masters.

Grand Chaplain.

Grand Master and Deputy Grand Master.

Grand Pursuivant with drawn Sword.

Four Grand Deacons bearing their Wands 2 and 2.

Two Grand Marshals, with their Wands, on the Flanks of the Procession.

The Front of the Procession having arrived in the above Order at the place of Interment, the Brethren halted, faced inwards and opened their Ranks, the Grand Lodge, preceded by the Corpse and Mourners, moved forward through the Ranks, the Brethren closed from the Rear, followed the Grand Lodge and formed a Circle round the Grave. A short Address was then delivered by the Reverend Doct^r. Staughton, and a prayer offered up by the Rev^d. Doct^r. Rogers, after which the proper Masonic Funeral Service, &c., was performed by the Grand Master and Grand Chaplain and the Masonic Honours, &c., given by the Brethren.

The funeral being over, the Procession returned in Inverse Order, according to Seniority, to the Hall, the Grand Lodge moving in Front.

Brothers Evan Davis and Joseph E. Collins were severally examined in open Lodge on the first degree of Masonry and were found duly qualified to be passed to the degree of a fellow craft.

A Master Masons Lodge was opened in Ample Form. The Minutes of the last Meeting were read. The Lodge finished the Examination of the witnesses in the case of Reisch and Bringhurst.

During the year 5809 the following Lodges were constituted viz: Lodge N°. 113, at Pittsburgh, "Solomon's Lodge" N°. 114 held at Philadelphia.

"On the 15th. September, 1806, the R. W. Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania adopted the following resolution respecting the pretended Grand Lodge of Delaware to wit: 'Resolved that this R. W. Grand Lodge cannot recognise the pretended Grand Lodge of the State of Delaware, nor any other Grand Lodge until the Brethren have formed themselves in that regular manner pointed out by the antient Constitutions and agreeably to the known usages of Masonry;' in consequence of which resolution none of the members of the said pretended Grand Lodge of Delaware, or of any of its pretended subordinate Lodges, can be admitted into this R. W. Grand Lodge, or into any of the Lodges under its jurisdiction. This Grand Lodge knows of but one regular and Lawful Lodge in the State of Delaware, which is Lodge N°. 5, held at Cantwell's bridge under the jurisdiction of this Grand Lodge."

On Motion Resolved that the Secretary be directed to notify each of the Committee appointed on the Bye-Laws of the anxious wish of the Lodge that they report at the next Stated meeting.

The Worshipful Master and Officers of the Lodge left their stations and the R. W. Grand Master and Grand Officers assumed them. The R. W. Grand Master implored a Divine Benediction upon the Labours of the Lodge, after which the R. W. Deputy Grand Secretary made the following Report on the Minutes of the Lodge.

"To James Milnor Esquire, Right Worshipful Grand Master of Masons in and for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and Masonic Jurisdiction thereunto belonging.

"The Deputy Grand Secretary to whom the Book of Transactions of Lodge N°. 2 since the last Grand visitation was referred for Inspection by the Right Worshipful the Grand Secretary.

"Respectfully reports

"That he has attended to that duty and finds that the members present at the Stated meetings of said Lodge have been generally from 14 to 23 with a number of visitors.

"That there have been 26 Initiations in said Lodge since the last Grand Visitation and some brethren admitted as members thereof.

"That the minutes of the 13th. Feby. 1809 State that a Committee was appointed to inquire into the charge made by a Br Reisch against a Br Bringhurst, which charge does not appear to have been read in open Lodge or what was the nature of said charge, your Deputy Grand Secretary respectfully conceives that as the Book of Constitution furnishes ample information on that subject the instructions therein given should be strictly adhered to.

"That the minutes of the 9th October 1809 state that Br Irwin having been examined and found worthy "he was duly prepared and passed, &c." which preparation it is respectfully conceived is improper to be inserted in the minutes of a Lodge & a similar Error has crept in the minutes of the 13th. November 1809 relate to the passing of Br Burrough.

"That so far as can be judged from the minutes it appears that all the labours of said Lodge No. 2, Except as above have been conducted with great regularity and perfectly consistent with the Landmarks of the Craft, all which is respectfully submitted to the consideration of your Worship

"THOMAS HENNESSY, Dep. Grand Secy."

"Philada. 10th. September 1810."

The R. W. G. M. again implored a divine benediction upon the labours of the Lodge after which the Grand Officers left their stations and the officers of the Lodge resumed them

6 July 1811

Which letter was accompanied by the Licence alluded to there in. And the W. M. stated to the Lodge the in consequence there of our deceased Br John Phillips was interred with Masonic honors on Saturday last at Eleven Oclock in the fore-noon.

It being stated to the Lodge that our worthy Br. Phillips who was elected Secy. last stated meeting had died suddenly on Friday last, Brother O'Brien volunteered his services to act as Secretary pro tem. untill St. John's day next, for the benefit of the deceased Brother Phillips' widow and children which being agreed to a motion was made & seconded that the widow Phillips be paid the six months salary in advance, which was agreed to and Brothers Cluly, Burden & J. D. Martin were appointed a committee & twenty five Dollars granted, being six months salary to St. John's Day next.

Brother John Phillips, who for fifteen years was an enthusiastic member of Lodge No. 2 as well as of the Grand Lodge, was a man of literary attainments. He kept a book store and circulating library for some years at No. 24 South Fourth Street, below Market, later in Third Street, east side a few doors above Spruce Street.

His memory is still kept green in the history of our Grand Lodge by his "Freemason's Companion or Pocket Preceptor," compiled for the use of the craft, published in Philadelphia, 1805. This work was dedicated to Israel Israel, Esq., R. W. G. M. of Pennsylvania; also by the large oil painting of Solomon's Temple said to be over three hundred years old, which was presented to Lodge No. 2 by his efforts. This painting has lately been restored and now occupies a prominent position in the Museum of the Grand Lodge.

Brother Phillips died on the evening of Friday, July 5, 1811, and was buried at eight o'clock upon the following (Saturday) morning as appears from the following notice from Poulson's Advertiser:

> DIED last Evening Mr JOHN PHILLIPS Librarian His friends and Masonic Brethren are invited to attend his funeral this A. M. at 8 O'Clock, from his late dwelling opposite the Mansion house.

The following elegiac lines were written in commemoration of his decease:

> For worth departed, tears of sorrow flow—
> Science and Friendship mourn in silent woe;
> In each pursuit, to honor's precepts true,
> JOHN PHILLIPS claims this tribute as his due;

CHAPTER XXI.

The New Masonic Hall, Chestnut Street, 1811–1819.

THE second cycle of the Masonic year of light 5811 was ushered in by the grand celebration incident to the dedication of the new Masonic Hall on Chestnut Street, which had been erected by the Brethren of the Grand and Subordinate Lodges of Philadelphia.

The want of convenient room in the hall in Filbert Street led to consultations as to the proper site for a more extensive structure. A lot which was suggested by many was situated on the north side of Chestnut Street, between Seventh and Eighth. It was of good size, and had been used occasionally for public purposes.

The result of the inquiries made upon the subject was that the Grand Lodge determined to secure the Chestnut Street lot. Preparations were immediately made for the erection of the building. Brother William Strickland was selected as the architect, and

PLACE OF MEETING OF THE GRAND LODGE OF PENNSYLVANIA, MASONIC HALL, 1811–1819. DESTROYED BY FIRE, MARCH 9th, 1819, CHESTNUT STREET, BETWEEN SEVENTH AND EIGHTH, NORTH SIDE, PHILADELPHIA.

Brother John Darragh was nominated as master builder. The Gothic order of architecture was followed in the plan of the edifice. The building as proposed measured in front 82 feet, and in depth 69 feet. The lot is 101 feet 7 inches front on Chestnut Street, by 178 feet in depth to Lodge Alley. The edifice was to be placed back at a distance of 50 feet from a dwarf wall, which, with railings and gateways, came out to the line of Chestnut Street. The distance at which the building stood from the street was calculated to give effect to the view. The brick work in front was to be supported by buttresses of parti-colored marble, enriched with niches for statues, capped by triangular pinnacles, connected together by an embattled parapet capped with marble. The center doorway and grand window, between the buttresses, was rough-cast, whilst the brick work of the wings was plain. A wooden steeple, 180 feet high from the ground, rose from the center of the roof.

On November 21, 1808, the Grand Lodge adopted this design. Preparations for the work were forthwith made, and on the morning of April 17, 1809, at eight o'clock, the corner-stone of the new hall was laid, in due Masonic form, by the Grand Officers,[1]

[1] The Grand officers and officials who participated in the laying of the corner-stone were the following:

James Milnor, Esq., was an attorney at law, and lived in Chestnut Street, first house below Sixth, north side. He afterwards studied divinity, was admitted to holy orders, and was known as the Rev.

there being no public procession at that time. Messrs. George A. Baker, Peter Le Barbier Du Plessis,

Dr. Milnor, rector of St. George's Church, Beekman Street, New York.

Peter Le Barbier Du Plessis was a conveyancer and sworn interpreter, who resided at 53 Walnut Street.

Thomas Passmore was a tinsmith, who lived at 172 Market Street. He afterwards became a celebrated auctioneer.

Richard Tybout was a hatter, living at 53 Chestnut Street.

George A. Baker, the Secretary of the Grand Lodge was a conveyancer at 23 Cherry Street, but well known afterwards at the northeast corner of Fourth and Cherry Streets. He was the City Treasurer for some years.

Robert Poalk was an auctioneer, residing at No. 43 North Fourth Street. This gentleman was known to every grocer in Philadelphia.

John Darragh, the master builder, lived at 33 North Fifth Street, afterwards in Pine Street, above Fifth.

John Griffith, the gentleman who presented the corner-stone, was a stone-cutter, 395 Market Street, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, north side.

William Strickland, architect, lived at No. 262 Arch Street. At that time he was but little known. He studied under Benjamin H. Latrobe. His first important architectural work was the old Masonic Hall, Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. The style was Gothic. His next important work was the United States bank, modelled after the Parthenon at Athens, and finished in August, 1824. He now took his place as one of the chief architects of the country, and as such built the new Chestnut Street Theatre, the Arch Street Theatre, United States custom-house, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, the Merchants' exchange, United States Mints, and the United States naval asylum, all in Philadelphia. Mr. Strickland was one of the first architects and engineers that turned his attention to the construction of railroads, and he went to Europe to study the system. On his return he built the Delaware breakwater for the United States government. His last work was the state-house at Nashville, Tenn., and he died while engaged in superintending its construction. By a vote of the legislature of the state his remains were placed in a crypt in that edifice.

MASONIC HYMN.

Composed by Brother Robert Taylor.
Sung by the Choir.

Supreme Grand Master! most sublime!
High Thron'd in Glory's radiant clime;
Behold thy Sons, on Bended Knee,
Conven'd, O God! to Worship Thee!

And as 'tis Thine, with open Ear,
The suppliant Voice of Prayer to hear,
Grant thou, O Lord! this One request,
Let Masons be, in blessing, blest.

O give the Craft, from Pole to Pole,
The feeling Heart, the pitying Soul,
The gen'rous Breast, the lib'ral Hand,
Compassion's Balm, and Mercy's band.

With Charity that pours around,
The Wine and Oil, on Mis'ry's wound;
And heals the Widow's, Orphan's Heart,
Deep pierc'd by Sorrow's Venom'd Dart.

Then to thy Throne, the Craft shall raise
One Deathless song of grateful praise;
And Masons, Men, in Chorus join,
To Hymn the pow'r of Love Divine.

THE NEW MASONIC HALL.

That Love supreme, thy Love, O God!
Which Heav'n itself shall pour abroad;
Till Light, Life, Peace, adorn the Vale,
And Angels, Men, pronounce all Hail!

ORATION ON MASONRY.

By Brother James Milnor, Esqr., R. W. Grand Master.

MASONIC HYMN.

Written by Brother Joseph Clay, P. M. of Lodge N°. 3, composed by Brother Carr, Sung by Brother Nisbet.
Chorus by the Choir.

Before revolving Years began,
The whole Creation's glorious plan,
  Almighty Wisdom laid;
But, till the appointed Time should pass,
A Void, deformed Chaotic Mass,
  The Universe was made.

Nor yet had Dawn'd the sacred light,
But o'er the World, primeval Night,
  Held undivided sway:
"Let there be Light" the Almighty spoke,
As the First beam through Chaos broke,
  He bless'd the Heavenly ray.

Then starting from Confusion's bed,
Young Order heav'd his beauteous Head,
  And the First Day—Spring Hail'd:
'Twas then the Rosy Hours were born,
That, blushing, led the Orient Morn,
  And Nature's Face unveil'd.

Then, First, the teeming Earth appear'd;
Then, First, the Heavenly Vault was rear'd,
  And fill'd with Glory's blaze;

On High the Ruling Lights were hung,
While Angel to Archangel sung,
  Th' Almighty Master's praise.

His Wisdom saw that all was good;
Beauty with Strength united stood,
  In Harmony combin'd,
The gloomy reign of Night was o'er,
Hoarse Discord's Voice was heard no more,
  Disorder stood confin'd.

'Twas thus, the Human race remain'd
In hopeless Bonds, by Passion Chain'd,
  To Ignorance and Guilt;
Till, after many a rolling age,
When the Wise King, and Tyrian Sage,
  The Holy Temple Built.

Then intellectual darkness ceas'd,
Majestic, in the kindling East,
  The Sun of Masons shone.
Thence to the West the Light he shed,
To us the bright effulgence spread,
  To Masons only known.

Thou, who did'st into being call,
Yon rolling Orbs, this Earthly Ball,
  Thou bad'st Thy Light to shine
For This—for All thy Mercies, LORD!
But Chiefly for Thy Holy Word,
  Eternal praise be Thine.

PRAYER.

By the Reverend Brother Doctor William Rogers, Grand Chaplain.

133rd PSALM, By the Choir.

1. Lo, what an entertaining sight
  Are Brethren that Agree;

Brethren, whose cheerful Hearts unite
In Bands of piety!

2. 'Tis like the Oil, Divinely sweet,
On Aaron's rev'rend Head;
The trickling drops perfum'd his Feet,
And o'er his garments spread.

3. 'Tis pleasant as the Morning Dews
That fall on Zion's Hill,
Where God His mildest glory shews,
And makes His grace distil.

BENEDICTION.

By the Reverend Brother Doctor Rogers.

The Society were Honoured with the attendance at the Church of the Honourable Judges of the several Courts, the Attorney General of the State, the Mayor, Recorder, and Alderman of the City, the Reverend Clergy of various denominations, and the Directors of the Academy of Fine Arts, together with many other respectable Characters, and a brilliant assemblage of Ladies.

After the services were concluded, the Procession was again taken up in the same Order and proceeded from the Church along the South side of Race to Fourth Street, along the East side of Fourth to Arch Street, along the South side of Arch to Third Street, along the East side of Third to Chestnut Street, and along the South side of Chestnut Street to the New Hall. The Front of the Procession having arrived at the New Hall, the Brethren halted, faced inwards and opened their ranks as before. The Members of the New Hall, (or building,) Committee, carrying the Key, moved on to the Front Door of the New Hall, unlocked and opened the same on the approach of the R. W. Grand Master. The R. W. Grand Master, preceded by the Grand Banner bearer, Grand Pursuivant, and Grand Deacons, followed in the First place by the Grand Lodge, in the Second place by all the Masters of the Lodges, (who left their Lodges as the Grand Lodge passed by them and fell in immediately after the Grand Lodge according to Seniority), and the Third place by the remainder of the procession, closing from the rear, thereupon entered the New Hall in Ancient and Solemn Form.

On the Grand Masters reaching Solomon's Chair, the Officers and Members took their Seats. The Lodge was then placed in the Centre of the Hall, and the Three Lights with the Golden Cornu-copiæ and Pitchers, containing Corn, Wine and Oil, were placed thereon. The Bible, Square and Compasses on a Crimson Velvet Cushion were placed on the Grand Master's Pedestal, and the Grand Lodge was Tyled.

Thirty One Lodges being represented the Lodge was uncovered and Grand Lodge opened in Ample Form, when an impressive prayer was offered up by the Rev^d^. Brother William Rogers, D. D., One of the Grand Chaplains.

The Grand Secretary intimated to the R. W. Grand Master, the Architect's desire to return the implements entrusted to his care in the erecting of the Hall. Whereupon, Brother Darragh, the Architect, addressed the Grand Master, who expressed his high satisfaction at the completion of the Hall, and commanded the Grand Wardens to receive back the Implements, which was complied with, and they were laid on the Lodge.

The Grand Secretary then informed the Grand Master that it was the desire of the Brethren to have the Hall Dedicated to The Grand Architect of the Universe and to Masonry. The Grand Master thereupon commanded his Grand Officers, and requested the favour of the R. W. Grand Masters of the R. W. Grand Lodges of New Jersey and Maryland, and of his Venerable predecessors, the R. W. Past Grand Masters of Pennsylvania, to assist in that Solemn Ceremony.

A Dedication Prayer was then offered up by the Reverend Brother George Richards, D. D., One of the Grand Chaplains.

The Grand Officers then made a Procession round the Lodge Three different Times, at the end of which the Grand Master, strewing Corn over the Lodge, declared in Solemn Form the Hall Dedicated To The Grand Architect of The Universe and to Masonry, which being proclaimed by the Grand Secretary, the Grand Honours were given. The Grand Officers again made a Procession round the Lodge Three different Times, at the End of which the Grand Master pouring Wine over the Lodge, declared in Solemn Form the Hall Dedicated To Virtue and Science, which being proclaimed by the Grand Secretary, the Grand Honours were given as before. The Grand Officers again made a Procession round the Lodge Three different Times, at the end of which the Grand Master pouring Oil on the Lodge in Solemn Form, declared the Hall Dedicated to Universal Charity and Benevolence, which being proclaimed by the Grand Secretary, the Grand Honours were given as before.

A Consecration Prayer was then offered up by the Reverend Brother Richards, Grand Chaplain, and the Grand Master returning to Solomon's Chair.

The Thanks of the R. W. Grand Lodge were presented to the R. W. Grand Master for the elegant and Appropriate Oration by him this Day delivered in St. John's Church before this Grand Lodge, and he was respectfully requested to furnish a Copy thereof for publication.[4]

[4] Copy in Grand Lodge Library.

On Motion made and Seconded,

Resolved Also, That the Thanks of the R. W. Grand Lodge be presented to "The Trustees of St. John's Lutheran Church" for the use of their Church obligingly granted on the Occasion of the Masonic Procession, and the delivery of the Masonic Oration before this Grand Lodge on this Day

Grand Lodge closed in Harmony at 4 o'clock, P. M., and the Brethern repaired to the various places of refreshment previously arranged.

MASONIC BANQUET.

The Grand Lodge with the Grand Officers of New Jersey and Maryland, a Number of other respectable Visitors and Brethren, about 200 in Number, sat down at 5 o'clock in the Afternoon of St. John's Day, 24th June, 1811, to a Banquet provided in the New Hall, when the following Toasts were drank with the accustomed Honours, Viz:

1. The Day.—The Proudest in the Annals of our Lodge.—May it prove the most propitious on the Tablets of Charity.
2. Our New Hall.—While social Harmony reigns in its Courts, its secret recesses shall prove a Sanctuary for Brothers, and a "a Lodge for the Virtues."
3. The Memory of Brother General George Washington.—May the gratitude of Masons display itself in Deeds, and rouse the slumbering sensibility of the Nation.
4. The Grand Lodges of the United States.—Wisdom to their deliberations, Strength to their Measures, and Moral Beauty to their Conduct.
5. Our Country.—Devotion to its Interests: One of the proudest traits in the Masonic Character.

6. Our Fair Sisters.—Their Happiness the principal object of our Institution.—In excluding Beauty from the Temple of Wisdom we distrust ourselves rather than them.
7. The Academy of Fine Arts and the Society of Artists.—They have sown "good Seed in good Ground:" May they be remunerated by an abundant Harvest.
8. The Clergy of the United States.—Guardians of the First great Light of Masonry, they display its influence by lives spent in Acts of Piety and Devotion.
9. The Mystic Signal.—The Last Appeal; never be it given without effect!

At Half past 8 o'clock in the Evening the Company separated in the utmost Harmony and good Order.

The Solemn and impressive solemnities of the Day were not interrupted by any unpleasant occurrences. As large a concourse of spectators as were ever Assembled on a public Occasion, conducted themselves with the greatest propriety and Decorum, and the display made by the Craft in the Procession, (about 750 in Number,) far excelled in Beauty and Order any former exhibition of a similar kind.

A Letter of which the following is a Copy was rec'd from Brother Charles J. Brooke, vizt.

WORSHIPFUL MASTER, WARDENS & BRETHREN OF LODGE N°. 2,

Brethren:

The difference formerly existing between W^{m}. Meguire & myself having been amicably & satisfactorily settled, I take the Liberty of soliciting your W. Lodge to stop all further proceedings in said difference against all parties whatsoever that may have been considered as concerned by your W. Lodge.

With sentiments of respect & esteem

I am, Brethren, yours in Unity

signed CHARLES J. BROOKE

Aug. 1, 1811

P. S.—As there is an impression on some of the minds of the Brethren that there was improper persuasion used, by my recommenders, to induce me to become a Mason, I beg leave to state that it was not the case, and that it was of "my own free will and accord" that I was initiated.

(signed) C. J. B.

On motion made & seconded, Resolved that the above letter from B^{r}. Charles J. Brooke be considered a sufficient cause why the Brethren concerned be not expelled.

It having been stated that the widow of our late

Worshipful Master Br Norman Burroughs was in distressed circumstances, it was resolved that a Committee be appointed to enquire into her situation & fifty Dollars placed in their hands for her relief if said committee thought necessary. Whereupon Brs. Cluly, Shelmardine & Hamilton were appointed.

(Signed) GEORGE A. BAKER

In adjourned Grand Quarterly Communication, Philadelphia, Monday 16th September, A. D. 1811, A. L. 5811.

The committee appointed to report a plan of government for such parts of the New Hall, as are reserved for Masonic purposes, made report, which was read; and

On motion made and seconded, the same was again read by paragraphs, and with some amendments adopted as follows; to wit,

To the R. W. the Grand Lodge of Pa.

The committee appointed to take into consideration a plan of government for such parts of the New Hall as are reserved for Masonic purposes;

Beg leave to report,

That they have considered the subject of their appointment with that attention it so justly deserves; That they are of opinion that it is of the highest importance to the Grand Lodge & the brethren generally, that the best care possible should be taken of their New Hall especially of those parts reserved for Masonic purposes, and of the valuable and beautiful jewels, furniture, &c, there-in contained;

Your committee beg leave to submit the following resolutions which they conceive will answer the end of their appointments;

Resolved, That a Grand Tyler be appointed to have the charge of all the parts of the New Hall reserved for Masonic purposes—to keep the whole clean & in the best order—to have the charge of all the jewels, furniture, &c. belonging to the Grand Lodge—to cleanse & light every Lodge Day, all the lamps and candles, & make fire, when necessary, in all the stoves—and that he shall attend to the putting out of the lights, & fires, & the building locked up on the several stated meetings of the subordinate Lodges.

Resolved, That the said Grand Tyler shall receive the sum of three hundred dollars annually, in four equal quarterly payments, as a compensation for the above services, independent of the fees he now receives for his other duties; that he shall be answerable for every thing committed to his care that shall happen to be damaged, broken or lost.

Resolved, That the Tylers employed by the different Lodges, shall be accountable to the said Grand Tyler for every thing damaged, broken or lost, during the time the rooms shall have been under their care, & that every Lodge, employing such Tyler shall be charged with the amount of such damage.

Resolved, That it be recommended to all the Lodges to unite as far as may be deemed expedient, to employ the same Tyler or tylers.

Resolved, That wax or Spermaceti candles & the best winter strained oil only, shall be used in the lodge rooms, and that the expense thereof shall be apportioned amongst all the Lodges & Chapters.

Resolved, That as soon as the additional Lodge room is completed, no Lodge shall be allowed to meet in the Grand Lodge room, but on the day appropriated for their stated meetings, and that any Lodge that may meet in the said additional room on particular business, or by adjournment, on any day not appropriated for their use, shall close their labours at least half an hour before the time appointed for the meeting of the Lodge, who shall be entitled to meet there on such day.

Resolved, That a committee, whose duty shall be to see all the afore going ad all other rules & regulations now in force concerning the Grand Tyler, carried into complete execution; that the said committee shall purchase the necessary firewood, candles, oil, &c examine & pass the Grand Tyler's bills, and sign them that the R. W. G. M. may draw his order on the Grand Treasurer for the same, & shall generally do, concerning the government of those parts of the Hall reserved for Masonic purposes all that circumstances may render necessary.

Resolved, That in case of the disease, resignation, refusal, neglect, or misbehavior of the Grand Tyler, the R. W. G. M.

be requested to appoint another upon the recommendation of the Hall Committee afore-said.

The R. W. G. M. was pleased to appoint Brothers Samuel Lippincott, T. Thomas Entriken, & Frederick Erringer, to be the Hall Committee:

Extract from the minutes

(Signed) GEORGE A. BAKER
Grand Secretary

The Hall Committee have ascertaind the expense of lighting the rooms, and fixed the following rates, viz,

Every Lodge to pay for lighting the large room, one dollar & twenty five cents, for every evening of meeting, and one dollar additional if the side lamps are lighted. Every Lodge, Chapter and Encampment to pay one dollar and twenty five cents for every evening of meeting in the small room.

In Adjourned Grand Quarterly Communication, Phila, Monday 6 April, A. D. 1812, A. L. 5812.

The Committee appointed at the stated meeting in April to investigate the charge brought by B^{r} McGuire against B^{r} John Douglass made the following Report, which was unanimously approved of and ordered to be inserted on the minutes viz:

To the Worshipful Master, Officers & members of Lodge N°. 2.

The Committee appointed to investigate a charge brought by B^{r}. W^{m}. Mequire against B^{r}. John Douglass, Junr. beg leave to Report, That Br. Wm. Meguire produced an account against Br. John Douglass, Junr. amounting to $151.93½ which Br. Douglass admitted to be correct and that he would allow it on settlement of an account he had against Br. Wm. Meguire amounting to $553.64/100 for which he had sued Br. Meguire. A copy of sd. account he produced to your committee, on examining it we found a charge of $428 being part of a sum awarded Br Douglass by a former committee from Lodge No. 2 & confirmed by the Lodge—from which decision Br. Meguire appealed to the Grand Lodge. A Committee by them appointed left the said sum of $428 open for settlement. In conformity to their decision he has instituted a suit against sd. Br. Wm Meguire being the only means left to obtain a final decision thereon. We are therefore of opinion that Lodge No. 2 cannot interfere further in the business. All which is respectfully submitted.
